Treasurer's Sale of Lands for Taxes

Each year, municipal and county treasurers compile a list of properties against which taxes are outstanding for at least two successive years, which is a period sufficient to permit sale of the owner's assets to reimburse the municipality. These lists are submitted by the municipal representative to the Ministry of Government Services for publication in THE ONTARIO GAZETTE.

The Gazette is published every Saturday. Tax sale lands are included only in the issue of the first Saturday of each month. Each property is described so that it may be properly identified. Also shown are the amount of tax arrears and costs, and the date, time and place where the sale will be held, which is usually in a public building in the locality. Sales are held three months or later following the date of publication in the Gazette and are subject to a reserve bid equal to the amount of tax arrears and costs.

The previous owner may by law redeem the property any time within one year and one day after the date of tax sale by paying to the municipality all arrears plus costs levied. Where redemption occurs, the municipality reimburses the purchaser of tax sale lands for the amount paid at the sale plus an additional amount to be determined in each case.

If the land is not redeemed in the manner described above, the purchaser at sale, receives from the municipality a tax deed or certificate which should be registered in the appropriate Land Titles or Registry Office. A purchaser should ascertain from either of these offices, information relating to any of the charges or liens against the land and consider the advisability of employing the services of a solicitor to determine the extent, if any, of his liability.

The foregoing applies to tax sale lands which were privately owned. In the event the land is the property of the Crown as represented by the Province of Ontario, only the improvements on the property, such as buildings, may be sold. In this case, an intending purchaser should for his own protection ascertain from the local office of the Ministry of Natural Resources whether or not the land or any part can be purchased or leased from the Ministry. If it cannot, then the purchaser of the improvements would be required to remove them from the land.

In some cases, the owner, prior to sale, may pay the tax arrears and cost. Where this occurs, the land is removed from the tax sale lists.

CITY OF TORONTO, MUNICIPALITY OF METROPOLITAN TORONTO

To Wit:

BY VIRTUE OF A WARRANT, as subjoined, issued by the Mayor of the Corporation of the City of Toronto, and bearing the date of the 15th day of October, 1984, for the collection of arrears of taxes due upon the undermentioned lands in the City, all such being patented lands, I shall on Thursday, the 21st day of February, 1985, at the hour of 11.00 o'clock in the forenoon and upon the following day or days until the sale is completed, at the Council Chamber, New City Hall, Toronto, proceed to sell the said lands by public auction for the best prices that may be offered by the bidders at the sale, together with all charges thereon, unless the same be sooner paid.

Terms of Sale:

Cash or certified cheque for the full amount bid and payable at the time of sale.

GEORGE H. CLARKE,
Treasurer of the Corporation
of the City of Toronto.

Treasurer's Office, Toronto, October 15th, 1984.

To G. H. Clarke, Esq.,
Treasurer of the Corporation
of the City of Toronto

You are hereby authorized and directed to levy upon the lands described in the several Wards, lists hereunto annexed, for the arrears of taxes due thereon and all costs and charges authorized by Statute in that behalf, and to proceed in the sale for the said arrears of taxes and costs as the law directs.

As Witness my hand and Seal of the Corporation of the City of Toronto, this 15th day of October, 1984.

ARTHUR C. EGGLETON,
Mayor.

Filed—October 19th, 1984.

ORDER MADE UNDER THE
ENVIRONMENTAL ASSESSMENT ACT

EXEMPTION—MINISTRY OF NATURAL RESOURCES—MNR-39/3

Having received a request from the Minister of Natural Resources that an undertaking, namely:

the activity of implementing projects under the Ministry of Natural Resources Special Employment Programs which consist of:

Projects carried out as part of the Federal—Provincial Job Creation Program and under Section 38 of the Unemployment Insurance Act and involving the:

1. Mining Sector Special Employment Work Program
2. Forest Sector Special Employment Work Program
3. Fisheries and Wildlife Special Employment Work Program
4. Conservation Authorities Sector Special Employment Work Program
5. Provincial Parks Sector Special Employment Work Program,

be exempt from the application of the Act pursuant to section 29; and

Having been advised by the Minister of Natural Resources that if the undertaking is subject to the application of the Act, the following injury, damage or interference with the persons and property indicated will occur:

- A. The Crown and the public will be damaged because the objective of short-term job creation may be impeded by taking time for preparation and submission of an environmental assessment for this undertaking.

Having weighed such injury, damage, or interference against the betterment of the people of the whole or any part of Ontario by the protection, conservation and wise management in Ontario of the environment which would result from the undertaking being subject to the application of the Act;

The undersigned is of the opinion that it is in the public interest to order and orders that the undertaking is exempt from the application of the Act for the following reasons:

- A. The program is short-term, with projects to be completed by March 31, 1985.
- B. The prime objective of the program is aimed at providing short-term job opportunities for people who are currently unemployed.
- C. This order exempts only those projects which are carried out under the program which forms part of the undertaking and does not exempt similar projects undertaken as part of the normal operations of the Ministry of Natural Resources.

This exemption is subject to the following terms and conditions:

1. Where a project exempted by this order is the same as a project with respect to which a Ministry of Natural Resources' Class Environmental Assessment has been submitted and an approval issued, that project shall be carried out in accordance with the Environmental Quality Guidelines of that Class Environmental Assessment and the applicable Environmental Quality Implementation Handbook. If the Class Environmental Assessment does not have Environmental Quality Guidelines or an Environmental Quality Implementation Handbook, then the District Manager will ensure that, where appropriate, a related Environmental Quality Guidelines and an Environmental Quality Implementation Handbook shall be used.
2. The Ministry of Natural Resources shall provide the Environmental Assessment Branch, within 30 days of the approval of this order, a list of the anticipated projects that will be exempted. The list shall include the following information on each project:

- project description and location;
- the scheduled project commencement and completion date;
- the MNR District within which the project will be carried out;
- any related projects.

This list and information will be revised every two months thereafter as additional projects are proposed and approved or listed projects are completed or deleted.

3. This order exempts only those projects which are carried out under the programs which form part of the undertaking and does not exempt similar projects undertaken as part of the normal operations of the Ministry of Natural Resources.
4. On March 31st, 1985, this order ceases to apply to any project that is not then complete. O. Reg. 660/84.

Occupational Health and Safety Act

PROPOSED REGULATION

UNDER THE

OCCUPATIONAL HEALTH AND SAFETY ACT, R.S.O. 1980, C. 321

MINISTRY OF LABOUR

NOTICE OF PROPOSED REGULATION RESPECTING ASBESTOS

ON CONSTRUCTION PROJECTS AND IN BUILDINGS AND REPAIR OPERATIONS

The development of an asbestos regulation for the construction industry dates back to June, 1980, when a Notice of Intent to designate asbestos was published by the Minister of Labour. A proposed regulation that would have applied to asbestos work in all industries was published in The Ontario Gazette in August 1980. That regulation contained numerical asbestos exposure limits and required control procedures in large part based on the results of air monitoring. In commenting on this proposed regulation, the Provincial Labour-Management Health and Safety Committee of the construction industry pointed out that the use of exposure limits and air monitoring was not appropriate for controlling asbestos exposure on construction projects, where working conditions are constantly changing. The Committee suggested, as an alternative, that the construction industry be covered by a regulation that specifies procedures to protect workers who deal with asbestos. This suggestion was accepted.

In August of 1982 the Regulation respecting Asbestos (Ontario Regulation 570/82) came into force. Construction projects were specifically excluded from the application of this regulation. At the same time a proposed regulation respecting asbestos on construction projects was published in The Ontario Gazette. Following a public comment period, a revised version of this regulation was presented at a public meeting in January 1983. It was subsequently decided to postpone finalization of the regulation until the Report of the Royal Commission on Matters of Health and Safety Arising from the Use of Asbestos in Ontario (the Commission) was received and reviewed. In this way the revised regulation could address concerns raised in that report.

The Commission report was tabled in May 1984. The Commission endorsed the control by procedure approach taken in the proposed regulation for asbestos on construction projects and recommended that it be extended to activities that involve building maintenance and custodial work. Although Ministry of Labour officials did not consider it feasible to have the regulation apply to custodians not involved with the maintenance and/or repair of buildings, the application of the proposed regulation has been extended to non-construction activities in buildings that contain asbestos and to repair operations involving exposure to asbestos. Of particular note is the control program to be instituted by owners of buildings that contain friable asbestos material (subsection 7(2) of the proposed regulation). This requirement corresponds to recommendation 10.6 of the Royal Commission. In all, the Commission made ²⁰ recommendations which are reflected in the proposed regulation.

The extended application of the proposed regulation to non-construction activities has made necessary a corresponding restriction in the application of the Regulation respecting Asbestos, in order to prevent overlapping coverage. It is therefore proposed that Ontario Regulation 570/82 be amended to restrict its application to asbestos mining operations and the manufacture of asbestos-containing products.

There will be an open meeting at which interested parties may comment on the proposed regulation. The meeting will be held Monday, December 17, 1984 in the Ontario Room, MacDonald Block, 2nd floor, Queen's Park, Toronto, at 1:30 p.m.

5. The demolition or dismantling of a building, structure, plant, equipment or ship, or part thereof shall be carried out or continued only when all friable material containing asbestos has been removed in accordance with this Regulation.

Note: Neither this Regulation nor the Occupational Health and Safety Act applies to the owner of a private residence.

6. (1) Before the demolition, dismantling, alteration or repair of a building, structure, ship, plant or equipment, or part thereof is begun or carried out, the owner thereof shall cause an inspection to be made to establish whether friable material that is likely to be handled, dealt with, disturbed or removed contains asbestos except where the owner knows that the friable material contains asbestos.

- (b) a constructor or employer fails to comply with subsection (5), and during the doing of the work friable material containing asbestos is required to be handled, dealt with, disturbed or removed, the owner, constructor or employer, or any person doing the work shall notify the Director thereof and the owner, constructor or employer, as the case may be, shall be liable for carrying out the measures and procedures prescribed by this Regulation.

(7) Where friable material is present and demolition, dismantling or repair is required to be carried out because of,

- (a) an emergency, or
- (b) the nature and extent of the alteration or repair makes it unreasonable or impractical for an owner to comply with subsection (1), the owner may carry out or cause to be carried out the demolition, dismantling, alteration or repair as though friable material containing asbestos was being handled, dealt with, disturbed or removed notwithstanding subsections (1) and (3), and the measures and procedures prescribed by this Regulation shall be complied with by any person doing the work.

7. (1) Where in a building friable material used therein as fireproofing or acoustical or thermal insulation that may contain asbestos has deteriorated and fallen upon the surface of any part of the building or any equipment therein, the owner shall cause the material to be examined to establish whether the material contains asbestos.

(2) Where an owner knows or an inspection establishes that friable material containing asbestos has been used in a building as fireproofing or as acoustical or thermal insulation, the owner shall,

- (a) prepare and maintain on the premises a record of the location of the friable material;
 - (b) advise a worker who may work in close proximity to the friable material or disturb the material, of its presence;

THE CODE FOR THE DETERMINATION
OF ASBESTOS FROM BULK SAMPLES

MINISTRY OF LABOUR

OCCUPATIONAL HEALTH AND SAFETY DIVISION

November 16, 1984

THE CODE FOR THE DETERMINATION
OF ASBESTOS FROM BULK SAMPLES

1. Principle of Method

- (1) Bulk samples, approximately 5 to 10 grams, are obtained from materials such as insulation, tiles or other materials suspected of containing asbestos.
- (2) Portions of the sample are examined under a petrographic microscope. Asbestos is identified by the fibrous morphology and optical properties and classified as being (1) chrysotile, (2) crocidolite (3) amosite or (4) other amphibole asbestos. The latter includes tremolite, anthophyllite and actinolite.
- (3) A representative portion of the sample is analyzed by X-ray diffraction to help confirm the presence of serpentine and/or amphibole minerals.

2. Apparatus

- (1) Zip-lock plastic bags to contain samples.
- (2) X-ray diffraction equipment.
- (3) Sample holders for X-ray equipment.
- (4) Mortar and pestle.
- (5) A pair of tweezers with fine-pointed tips.
- (6) A petrographic microscope capable of magnifications up to 450 times and equipped with polarizer, analyzer, gyp-sum compensator and accessories for dispersion staining.
- (7) Glass microscope slides.
- (8) Glass coverslips for microscope slides.

3. Reagents

- (1) Immersion oils, such as Cargille oils, with refractive indices ranging from 1.52 to 1.70.

4. Procedure

- (1) The bulk sample is examined and representative portions are taken by means of tweezers.
- (2) If necessary, a portion of sample is crushed using the mortar and pestle.
- (3) All sample preparation should be conducted inside a fumehood.

X-Ray Diffraction Analysis

- (1) The sample is mounted in the sample holder and analyzed using X-ray diffraction by scanning over the 2θ range of approximately 9° to 40° if a cobalt X-ray source is used.
- (2) The d-spacings of the peaks present are calculated and compared to asbestos diffraction patterns as published by the Joint Committee On Powder Diffraction Standards. The major peaks of asbestos are listed in Table 1.

Microscopic Analysis

- (1) Using tweezers, a portion of the sample is placed in an appropriate immersion oil on a glass microscope slide and covered with a coverslip.
- (2) Using magnifications from approximately 60X to 450X the sample is examined for the appropriate optical properties listed in Table 1.

- (3) The microscopic examination is repeated as necessary to estimate the amount of asbestos present in the bulk sample.

5. Calculations

- (1) The Occupational Health Laboratory uses an X-ray tube with a cobalt target. The d-spacings of the X-ray peaks are calculated from the 2θ angle using the following equation:

$$\text{d-spacing in } \text{\AA} = \frac{1.7889}{2 \sin \left(\frac{2\theta}{2} \right)}$$

This equation will differ if another X-ray source (i.e. not cobalt) is used.

6. Range and Sensitivity

- (1) Fibres less than about 5 μm long and less than about 0.5 μm wide cannot be identified since they are small than the resolution of the light microscope.
- (2) Asbestos fibres in concentrations of less than about 5% may not be detected by means of the X-ray diffraction analysis.
- (3) Asbestos fibres in concentrations of less than approximately 0.5% may not be detected by means of light microscopic examination.

7. Presentation of Results

- (1) The following forms of asbestos are identified and reported individually: chrysotile, amosite, crocidolite, amphibole asbestos (excluding crocidolite & amosite).

- (2) The amount of asbestos, by volume, is estimated by the area it occupies relative to that occupied by all the particulate matter on the microscope slide and is reported as one of the following:

- (a) none detected (detection limit 0.5%)
- (b) less than 1%
- (c) 1% to 5%
- (d) 5% to 25%
- (e) 25% to 50%
- (f) 50% to 75%
- (g) more than 75%

8. Interferences

- (1) Minerals of the serpentine and amphibole groups exhibit the same X-ray diffraction patterns as chrysotile and amphibole asbestos, respectively. Therefore, mineral fibres exhibiting the appropriate properties as listed in Table 1 must be found before asbestos can be confirmed as being in the sample.
- (2) Cellulose fibres and carbonates, if present in large quantities, may interfere with the analysis. The cellulose can be removed by ashing in a furnace at approximately 400°C for one hour. The carbonates can be removed by treatment with dilute hydrochloric acid.

ANALYTICAL PROCEDURES USED BY THE OCCUPATIONAL HEALTH LABORATORY WILL BE REVIEWED PERIODICALLY AND, IF NECESSARY, REVISED.

 If the fibres are small such that their optical properties can not be determined, a portion of the sample is then processed for electron microscopic examination combined with X-ray energy dispersive analysis to determine the presence of asbestos.

- (4) A copy of the assessment made by an employer shall be given by the employer to each member of the joint health and safety committee.

7. (1) Where the assessment discloses or would, if made in conformity with section 6, disclose that a worker is likely to inhale, absorb or come into contact with ethylene oxide and that the health of the worker may be affected thereby, the employer shall develop, establish, put into effect and maintain measures and procedures to control the exposure of the worker to ethylene oxide and shall incorporate the same into an ethylene oxide control program.

8. Where a change is made in a process involving ethylene oxide, or in the methods and procedures in the production, use, handling or storage of ethylene oxide and the change could result in a significant difference in the exposure of a worker to the inhalation, absorption or contact with ethylene oxide, the employer shall cause a further assessment to be made forthwith and the provisions of sections 6 and 7 apply to the further assessment.
9. (1) Where disputes arise between an employer and a joint health and safety committee as to an assessment required under section 6 or 8 or as to the measures and procedures mentioned in subsection 7(1) or the ethylene oxide control program or its provisions required under section 7 or 8, the employer, a member of the joint health and safety committee or the committee may notify an inspector thereof who shall investigate and give a decision in writing to the employer, the member or the committee.

SCHEDULE

The time-weighted average exposure of a worker to airborne ethylene oxide shall be calculated as follows:

- 1. The average concentrations of ethylene oxide to which a worker is exposed shall be determined from analyses of air samples taken as being representative of the exposure of the worker to ethylene oxide during work operations as set out in the Code mentioned in section 11.
- 2. The results of the analyses are the concentrations expressed as parts of ethylene oxide per million parts of air by volume or as mg of ethylene oxide per m³ of air.

AIR SAMPLING METHOD FOR ETHYLENE OXIDE1. Principle of the Sampling Method

Air, possibly containing ethylene oxide, is drawn at a fixed flow rate for a known duration through two glass tubes in tandem, each containing 20/40 mesh activated charcoal. Each tube is analyzed separately for ethylene oxide, determined as 2-bromoethanol, by desorption, derivatization with hydrobromic acid, and by gas chromatographic assay of the treated solution. The presence of ethylene oxide in the second or back-up tube is used to indicate the extent of breakthrough during air sampling. In addition to personal sampling, area samples may be collected by this method by placing a sampling train on a suitable support at a strategically selected location.

2. Equipment

The sampling train used to obtain an air sample containing ethylene oxide is to include the following components and satisfy the criteria suggested:

(1) A battery operated portable pump which:

- (a) is capable of delivering, for 6-8 hours, not less than 0.050 litres of air per minute (L/min) with the glass tubes, each containing activated charcoal, in the sampling train. The maximum deviation from the prescribed flow rate is not to exceed $\pm 5\%$ and it is suggested that the pump be equipped with a pulsation damper;
- (b) is intrinsically safe, i.e. certified by an accepted agency as safe for use in potentially explosive atmospheres;
- (c) includes a mechanism for calibration and control of the flow rate;
- (d) has an on-off switch and flow rate control or adjustment mechanism which are as tamper-proof as possible.

(2) Two sample collection devices (glass tubes), each of which is constructed from glass tubing approximately 80 millimetres (mm) in length, 6 mm in inner diameter and 8 mm in outer diameter and contains in sequence the following materials:

- (a) a plug of silanized glass wool immediately behind the inlet port; and
- (b) 20/40 mesh activated charcoal of which the front tube contains 400 mg and the back up tube 200 mg.

Each tube is flame-sealed at both ends and is supplied with two caps for sealing the tube after it has been used for air sampling.

(3) A tube holder which:

- (a) includes an alligator clip for attachment to clothing;
- (b) includes an adapter for flexible tubing to ensure a leak-proof fit for the sample collection device;
- (c) provides adequate protection against tube breakage.

(4) Tubing of sufficient length with appropriate wall thickness to prevent collapsing when air is drawn through and with the appropriate inner diameter which will provide a leak-proof fit to the tube holder and to the inlet port of the portable pump.(5) A thermometer for ambient air temperature measurement, accurate to $\pm 1^{\circ}\text{C}$.*(6) A barometer for measuring atmospheric pressure, accurate to ± 5 mm Hg (± 0.67 kPa).

3. Sampling Procedure

(1) Preparation of pumps:

- (a) The pump battery pack shall be fully charged according to the manufacturer's instructions before use. After a pump, with the fully charged battery pack, has been operated for a duration as recommended by the manufacturer, another fully-charged battery pack shall be substituted for the used one if continued operation of the same pump on the same day is intended.
- (b) Flow meters or constant flow devices on the pumps shall be calibrated at 0.050 L/min with the glass tubes in line by using a primary standard, such as a bubble meter, and the recommended procedure in the manufacturer's instructions for using such a primary standard apparatus, after:
 - (i) not more than 40 hours of operation;
 - (ii) receiving unusually harsh or potentially damaging treatment;
 - (iii) being disassembled for maintenance.

(2) Sampling:

- (a) Assemble the sampling train by connecting one end of the flexible tubing to the inlet port of the pump and the other end to the adapter on the tube holder. The ends of the glass tubes are broken to form openings of at least 2 mm. They are connected by the shortest possible length of tubing and are inserted into their holders.

- (b) Check for air leaks in the sampling train by turning on the pump and sealing the open end of the tube. The air flow indicator on a pump with a flow meter should drop to the zero flow position and oscillate slightly. If this does not occur, find the leak and either repair or replace the faulty component.
- (c) Label both tubes with appropriate sample numbers.
- (d) Attach the pump preferably to the worker's belt or place it in a pocket, and fix the tube holders to the worker's clothing, as near as possible to the breathing zone, with the tubes vertical and the air inlet port facing upward. Ensure that the equipment will not interfere with the worker's normal duties.
- (e) Check again that the sampling train is properly assembled and switch on the pump. Allow the flow rate to stabilize for a short duration, then adjust the rate to the pre-calibrated mark of 0.050 L/min, if the pump has a flow meter. Pumps with constant flow devices shall not be reset after the flow rate control mechanism has been calibrated to deliver air at this rate. A calibrated external flow meter may be used to check the air flow rate.
- (f) Note the following information for each sampling train:
 - (i) date of sampling;
 - (ii) company name;
 - (iii) model and serial number of the sampling pump;
 - (iv) calibration date of the sampling pump;
 - (v) name of worker being monitored;
 - (vi) job title of worker;

- (vii) work or operation performed;
 - (viii) tube or sample number;
 - (ix) air flow rate;
 - (x) time of initiation of sampling.
- (g) Ensure that for any sampling performed during any survey, two sets of blank glass tubes are obtained from the same source and the same batch as the sample tubes. One of the sets is handled in the same manner as the sample (break, seal and transport) except that no air is drawn through it.
- (h) The maximum sampling duration for obtaining an air sample shall be selected to ensure that breakthrough will not occur. A maximum sampling duration of 100 minutes would be appropriate in most cases. A shorter sampling duration should be used to avoid significant breakthrough if a high concentration of ethylene oxide and/or the presence of other organic solvent vapours are known or suspected. However, the minimum sampling duration shall be selected so that a sufficient amount of ethylene oxide is collected for purposes of determining a time-weighted average. A minimum sampling duration of 15 minutes would be appropriate in most cases. A sufficient number of sequential air samples should be taken to cover a full workshift or operation during which the worker is exposed to ethylene oxide. Where it is necessary to obtain a better estimate of the worker's time-weighted average exposure, air sampling should be conducted for a sufficient number of workshifts or days in a work week.
- (i) During any sampling interval, the sampling train shall be checked periodically to ensure that it is functioning properly. The air flow rate shall not be readjusted after the initial flow rate is set. If the flow rate changes significantly, terminate sampling and take another sample.
- (j) The ambient air temperature and pressure in the sampling area, if required, shall be recorded at least once.
- (k) When two or more substances are known or suspected to be present in the air, such information, including the suspected identities, should be recorded since these compounds may interfere with the analysis.
- (l) To terminate sampling, perform the following sequence of steps:
- (i) check the air flow rate just prior to termination of air sampling;
 - (ii) record the time of termination of sampling;
 - (iii) switch off the pump and carefully remove the sampling train from the worker;
 - (iv) separate the front glass tube from the back-up tube, and cap the inlet and outlet ports of each;
 - (v) pack the capped tubes tightly to minimize breakage and ship them to a laboratory in an airtight plastic container inside a thermos containing ice.
- (m) Where a maximum concentration determination is required, it shall be determined by following the procedure specified above with the following exceptions:
- (i) an air sample should be taken for a period of time, generally 15 minutes, in order to allow accurate determination of the concentration of ethylene oxide; and

- (ii) a sufficient number of air samples should be taken during the time periods when peak concentrations are anticipated from a knowledge of the work process, work operation, work cycle, or work practices.

A = corrected amount of ethylene oxide in the sample tube in µg
F = air flow rate in litres per minute
T = temperature in °C
P = pressure in mm Hg
t = sampling duration in minutes.

4. Analysis and Calculation of Results

- (1) Follow the analytical method entitled "Determination of Ethylene Oxide as 2-Bromoethanol on Charcoal Used for Air Sampling" in carrying out the analyses of sample tubes for ethylene oxide.
- (2) Corrections for the field blank are made for each sample provided that the various amounts of analyte in all sample tubes are greater than the amount of analyte in the field blank tube.
- (3) When the amount of ethylene oxide in the back-up tube exceeds 25% of the total ethylene oxide found in both the front and back-up tubes, there has been a significant breakthrough and the concentration of ethylene oxide determined for the sample is likely underestimated. If a significant breakthrough is found in most of the samples analyzed, the sampling strategy used is to be reviewed and, if necessary, revised.
- (4) The concentration of ethylene oxide in an air sample can be calculated in parts per million by volume (ppm) by using the following equation:

C =
$$\frac{A \times 0.556}{\frac{F \times t \times 298}{(273 + T)} \times \frac{P}{760}}$$

where C = concentration of ethylene oxide in ppm

THE DETERMINATION OF ETHYLENE OXIDE AS 2-BROMOETHANOL
ON CHARCOAL USED FOR AIR SAMPLING

1. Principle of Method

- (1) Air is drawn at a specified rate for a known duration through two glass tubes arranged in sequence, each containing charcoal to adsorb the organic substances present. The tubes are then closed with the supplied plastic caps and kept cool (4°C) pending analysis.
- (2) Each tube is scored with a file and broken open. All the charcoal from a tube is transferred to a small, stoppered sample container and the analyte is desorbed with benzene containing 1% carbon disulfide.
- (3) The ethylene oxide in solution is reacted with hydrobromic acid, converting it to 2-bromoethanol.
- (4) The excess hydrobromic acid is neutralized with sodium carbonate and a known volume of the solution is injected into a gas chromatograph.
- (5) The detector response to 2-bromoethanol derived from ethylene oxide present in the sample is determined and compared with that of appropriate standards.

2. Apparatus

- (1) Gas chromatograph equipped with an electron capture detector (ECD).
- (2) Column (3.3 m x 3.2 mm ID) packed with 10% FFAP coated on Chromosorb W, 60-80 mesh.

Note: Other contaminants collected with the analyte under review may modify the choice of column packing. Other columns may give an equivalent performance.

- (3) An electronic integrator or some other suitable method for measuring detector response.
- (4) Glass vials (5, 2 and 1 mL) with caps lined with an inert material such as polytetrafluoroethylene.
- (5) Microlitre syringes: 10 µL and other convenient sizes for preparing standards.
- (6) Pipettes: 1.0 mL delivery pipettes.
- (7) Assorted volumetric flasks.
- (8) Pressure-reducing valves: a 2-gauge, 2-stage, pressure-reducing valve and appropriate hose connections are needed for each tank of compressed gas used.
- (9) A rotary shaker.
- (10) A 10 mL gas-tight locking syringe.
- (11) Septa faced with inert material such as polytetrafluoroethylene.
- (12) An analytical balance capable of weighing to 0.1 mg.

3. Reagents

- (1) Benzene, pesticide grade.
- (2) Carbon disulphide, chromatographic quality.
- (3) Ethylene oxide gas, 99% + purity.
- (4) Hydrobromic acid, 48%, reagent grade.
- (5) Sodium carbonate, anhydrous, reagent grade.

- (6) Desorbing solution, 99% benzene + 1% carbon disulphide (v/v).
- (7) Argon containing 5% methane as carrier gas for the gas chromatograph.
- (8) Deionized water.
- (9) n-Butanol.

4. Procedure

(1) Cleaning of equipment

- (a) Before use, all new glassware is cleaned to remove any residual grease or chemicals.
- (b) Glassware is cleaned by soaking in an approximately one in five dilution of concentrated nitric acid in water for at least 6 hours, and then rinsed thoroughly with tap water and deionized water, in that order, and then dried.

(2) Preparation of samples

- (a) Each charcoal tube is scored with a file and broken open. The glass wool is removed and discarded. The charcoal from a tube is transferred to a 5 mL vial. Each tube is analyzed separately.
- (b) A 2.0 mL aliquot of desorbing solution is pipetted into each vial. The vials are sealed immediately and allowed to desorb for one hour on a rotary shaker. (All work with the desorbing solution is performed in a hood).
- (c) The main portion of the desorbing solution containing the analyte is transferred to a clean 2 mL vial with a disposable pipette.
- (d) About 50 μ L of hydrobromic acid is added to the vial and after closing the cap, the contents are mixed well for 5 minutes.

- (e) About 0.15 g of sodium carbonate is added to the vial and, after the reaction subsides, the vial is resealed.
- (f) The clear solvent in the vial, which contains 2-bromoethanol derived from the ethylene oxide, is subjected to gas chromatography.

(3) Chromatographic analysis

- (a) The typical operating conditions for the gas chromatograph, recommended for this analysis, are:
 - i) 25 mL/minute carrier gas flow rate.
 - ii) 210°C injector temperature.
 - iii) 250°C detector temperature.
 - iv) 150°C column temperature.
- (b) A sample volume of 2.0 μ L is injected into the GC and the area under the 2-bromoethanol peak is measured, preferably by means of an electronic integrator.
- (c) All blank tubes are analyzed in accordance with the total procedure.
- (d) It is also necessary to determine the blank value for the batch of charcoal used to prepare the sample tubes.

5. Calibration and Standards

(1) Stock standard preparation

- (a) Pipette 5.0 mL of n-butanol into a 5 mL sample container.

- (b) Seal the container using a screw cap lined with a septum faced with an inert material such as polytetrafluoroethylene.
- (c) Insert a spare syringe needle through the septum of the container and keep the needle tip above the liquid. This acts as an air bleed.
- (d) Insert the tip of a second syringe needle through the septum and continue until the needle tip is below the level of the n-butanol.
- (e) Allow the prepared sample container to stand until it equilibrates with the ambient temperature of the balance room (approximately one hour).
- (f) Weigh the container and contents on an analytical balance and note the weight.
- (g) Draw 10 mL of ethylene oxide gas into a gas-tight syringe and close the valve.
- (h) Connect the sealed gas-tight syringe to the sample container needle which has its tip below the level of the n-butanol.
- (i) Open the syringe valve and expel the ethylene oxide slowly into the n-butanol.
- (j) When all the ethylene oxide is expelled, disconnect the gas-tight syringe from the inserted needle.
- (k) Reweigh the sample container and contents.
- (l) Remove the syringe needles from the septum.

(m) The weight of ethylene oxide dissolved in n-butanol is calculated by subtracting the tare weight of sample container plus needles and n-butanol from that of container, needles, n-butanol and ethylene oxide determined by the second weighing (section 5(1)(k)).

(n) The exact concentration is determined from the following formula:

net weight (in mg) of ethylene oxide dissolved in n-butanol	X	% purity of ethylene oxide
5 mL		100

- (2) A series of calibration standards is prepared from the stock standard by diluting suitable aliquot portions to 1.0 mL with desorbing solution. The standards required are 1, 5, 10 and 20 µg/mL.
- (3) The calibration standards are treated in the same manner as the samples (section 4(2)(c) to 4(3)(b)) before being subjected to gas chromatography.
- (4) A standard curve is prepared by plotting concentration of ethylene oxide in µg/mL versus peak area of 2-bromoethanol and is found to be linear over the concentration range 1 to 20 µg ethylene oxide/mL.

Note: Due to daily variations in GC performance, a new calibration curve is determined daily.

6. Calculations

- (1) Read the concentration of ethylene oxide in µg/mL corresponding to each peak area (section 4(3)(b)) from the standard curve. The uncorrected weight of ethylene oxide in the sample is found by multiplying the concentration by 2.

- (2) Corrections for the blank must be made for each sample.

$$\mu\text{g} = \mu\text{g sample} - \mu\text{g blank}$$

where $\mu\text{g sample}$ = μg found on the sample tube

$\mu\text{g blank}$ = μg found on the blank tube

7. Detection Limit

The detection limit of ethylene oxide in desorbing solution, determined as 2-bromoethanol and based on a 2 μL injection, was found to be 0.5 μg ethylene oxide/mL of desorbing solution.

8. Interferences

- (1) Any compound which has the same retention time as 2-bromoethanol at the operating conditions described in this method may interfere. Retention time data for a single GC system does not provide proof of chemical identity: a mass spectrum may serve to confirm identity (see attached spectrum).

9. Precision

Ethylene oxide was used as the standard.

Standard solution being measured ($\mu\text{g/mL}$)	No. of samples	Relative standard deviation (%)
1.0	10	11.0
5.0	10	12.8
10.0	10	9.6

10. Determination of Desorption Efficiency

- (1) The desorption efficiency may vary from one batch of charcoal to another and from one laboratory to another. Thus, it is necessary to determine, at least once, the percentage of ethylene oxide that is removed in the desorption process, for each batch of charcoal used. The percentage recovery is variable with the amount of ethylene oxide present and the concentration range shall cover that found in the samples.

Note: Unless a vapour chamber is available for the preparation of suitable spiked samples, the NIOSH technique of spiking samples with known amounts of a solution of the ethylene oxide standard dissolved in desorbing solution should be followed.

- (2) Procedure for determining desorption efficiency
- (a) 400 mg of activated charcoal is placed in a 5 mL glass vial.
- (b) A known volume of a standard solution of ethylene oxide in desorbing solution is injected directly into the activated charcoal with a microlitre syringe, and the vial is sealed using a screw cap with a septum faced
- with an inert material such as polytetrafluoroethylene. Typically, 10 to 150 μL of solution are added to spike at levels from 0.5 to 20 μg of ethylene oxide.
- (c) The prepared vials are allowed to stand overnight to assure complete adsorption of the analyte onto the charcoal. These vials are referred to as the sample.

- (d) A blank is prepared by placing 400 mg of activated charcoal into a 5 mL glass vial, adding to it an amount of desorbing solution equal to that used in the sample preparation and treating it in the manner described above.
- (e) The sample and blank are treated in exactly the same manner as the sample described in sections 4(2)(b) to 4(3)(b).

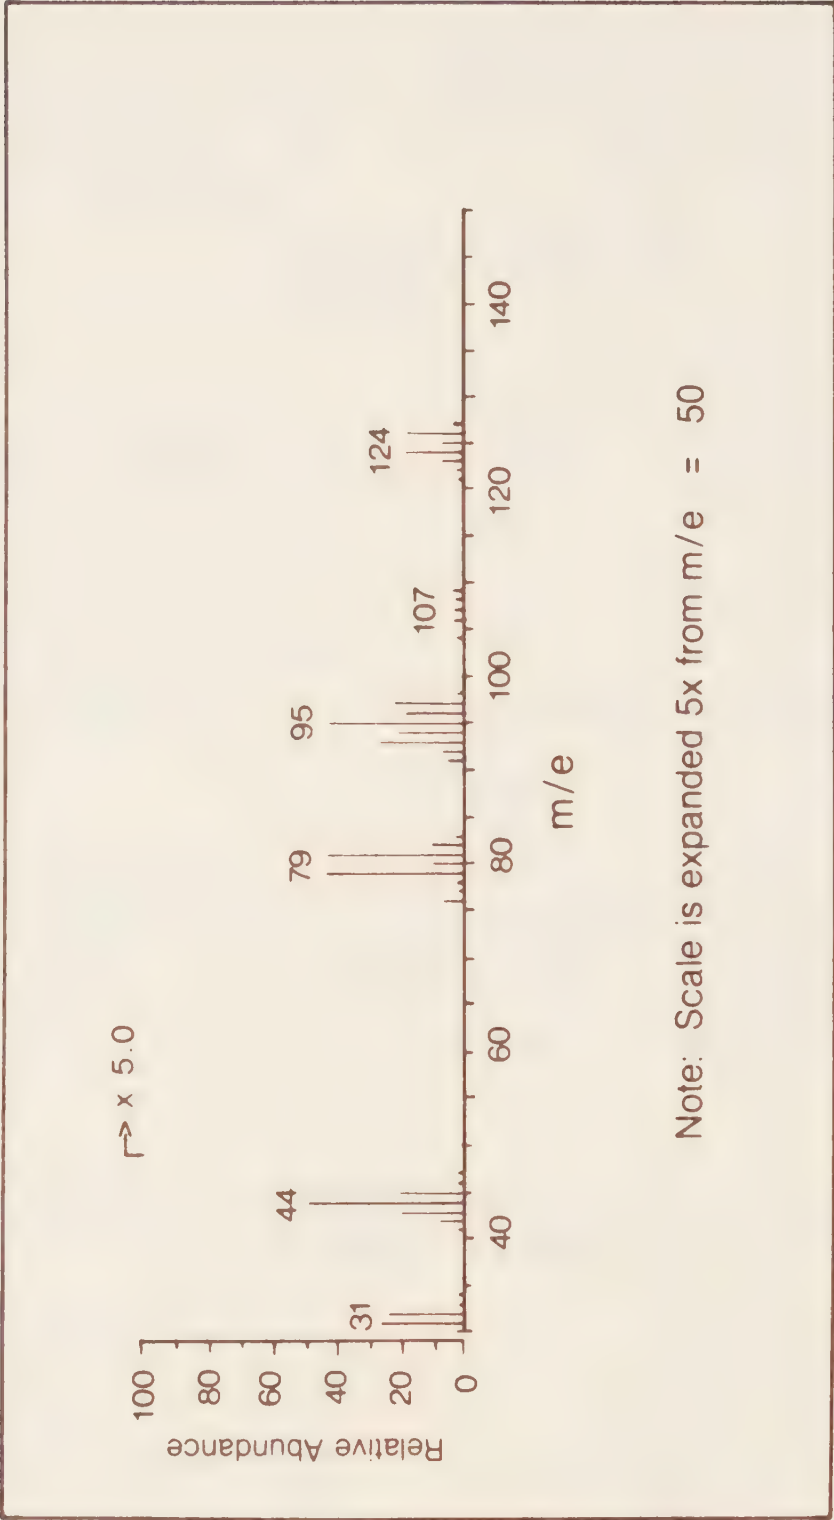

desorption efficiency =
$$\frac{\text{average weight recovered}}{\text{weight added}}$$

Amount of ethylene oxide added to sample (µg)	No. of samples	Desorption efficiency (%)	Relative standard deviation (%)
0.5	10	99.2	19.3
2.5	10	101.2	10.0
5.0	10	103.4	16.9

Note: The data listed in Sections 7, 9 and 10 were obtained on a Hewlett-Packard 5840A gas chromatograph. The mass spectrum was obtained on a Hewlett-Packard 5985 GC/MS system. The equipment listed above is specified for clarification purposes only and should not be taken as an endorsement by the Ministry.

SAMPLING AND ANALYTICAL PROCEDURES USED BY THE MINISTRY WILL BE REVIEWED PERIODICALLY AND, AND IF NECESSARY, REVISED.

O. Reg. 710/84.

Exemption—Ministry of Natural Resources—MNR-30/5.

Made—October 26th, 1984.

Approved—October 26th, 1984.

Filed—November 2nd, 1984.

ORDER MADE UNDER THE ENVIRONMENTAL ASSESSMENT ACT

EXEMPTION—MINISTRY OF NATURAL RESOURCES—MNR-30/5

Having received a request from the Minister of Natural Resources that an undertaking, namely:

The carrying out of the Provincial Parks Program including:

(a) Implementing:

1. Park Management Plans,
2. Site Plans,
3. Resource Management Plans,
4. Visitor Service and Interpretive Programs,
5. Development Activities,
6. Capital Construction and Lease Purchase Projects,
7. Wildlife Habitat Improvement Projects,
8. Operations and Maintenance Plans and Schedules, in provincial parks;

(b) Developing sewage or water works within or for provincial parks;

(c) Acquiring land to amend the boundaries of existing provincial parks; to complete land acquisition for an existing provincial park; or for a sewage lagoon in or for a provincial park; and

(d) Establishing, amending and rescinding boundary regulations for existing provincial parks;

be exempted from the application of the Act pursuant to section 29; and

Having been advised that if the undertaking is subject to the application of the Act, the following injury, damage or interference with the persons and property indicated will occur:

- A. The Ministry of Natural Resources has included a revised draft Class Environmental Assessment for Provincial Park Management and Development with the request for this exemption order, to initiate pre-submission consultation. Pre-submission consultation and completion of the class environmental assessment for formal submission will be hampered by having to prepare separate exemptions or assessments for all provincial parks projects at the same time.
- B. Park environmental and recreational features could be damaged in the absence of provincial parks projects that address existing park management problems.
- C. Public enjoyment of recreational features may be reduced in the absence of the implementation of provincial parks projects.
- D. The realization of the Government's Outdoor Recreation Program objective and economic benefits to local communities would be limited.

Having weighed such injury, damage or interference with the betterment of the people of the whole or any part of Ontario by the protection, conservation and wise management of the environment which would result from the undertaking being subject to the application of the Act;

The undersigned is of the opinion that it is in the public interest to order and orders that the undertaking is exempt from the application of the Act for the following reasons:

- A. The Ministry of Natural Resources (MNR) has prepared a revised draft Class Environmental Assessment for Provincial Park Management and Development which is included with the request for this exemption order, to initiate pre-submission consultation.
- B. This interim exemption will allow provincial parks plans and projects to continue while the class environmental assessment on the Provincial Parks Program undergoes pre-submission consultation.

- C. The Provincial Parks Program is carried out within a context of conservation, protection and wise management of the environment. A major feature of the Provincial Parks Program is the preservation of significant, natural and cultural features in the Ontario landscape.
- D. The conditions to which this undertaking is subject will ensure that affected Government agencies and the public are informed of MNR's intentions to implement components of the Provincial Parks Program during the period of this exemption order.
- E. A number of activities that make up this undertaking are similar to activities that are covered by approved MNR class environmental assessments. The Minister of Natural Resources will apply such parts of the procedures specified in the class environmental assessments as are appropriate to the activities that make up this undertaking until such procedures, or other procedures are made directly applicable by the class environmental assessment referred to in reason A.

This exemption order is subject to the following terms and conditions:

1. This exemption order does not apply to any plan or project:

- (a) for any provincial park designated by regulation under the Provincial Parks Act after June 1, 1983 or for any provincial park extension which includes lands listed in the "Ministry of Natural Resources Backgrounder—Land Use Guidelines, July, 1983";
- (b) where development is likely to affect the habitat of a species designated under the Endangered Species Act (except for protecting the species);
- (c) where the estimated completion cost of a sewage or water works or a capital construction or lease purchase project is in excess of $2 million, not including any land acquisition costs.

2. This exemption order does not apply to any plan or project which includes the disposition of property or interests in property to the private sector for:

- (a) mineral exploration and development;
- (b) the development of a new commercial recreation facility or the upgrading of an existing commercial recreational facility;

both of which will be done pursuant to exemption order MNR-26/4, as amended from time to time.

3. MNR will provide the appropriate Regional Office and the Environmental Assessment Branch of the Ministry of the Environment (MOE) with a list of proposed plans and projects (e.g., annual work plans, park boundary amendments) for the Provincial Parks Program no less than 30 days prior to the implementation of any plan or project. The lists will specify the nature, size and location of all plans and projects and will also specify which plans and projects will be carried out pursuant to another exemption order. MNR will notify the above offices of significant revisions to the lists no less than 30 days prior to the implementation of any such plans or projects.

4. A copy of the project plans specified in the lists noted in Condition 3 shall be available to the public for examination at the appropriate District Office of the Ministry of Natural Resources at least 30 days before implementation commences.

5. Any activity exempt under this exemption order that would be approved under a MNR class environmental assessment, except that the approval does not apply to provincial parks, shall be carried out in accordance with the following as though the activities were not in a provincial park:

- (a) follow the appropriate class environmental assessment procedures, including notification, if there is no park management plan;
- (b) follow the environmental quality guidelines and the MNR Construction and Mitigation Handbook, if there is a park management plan.

6. Where the Minister of the Environment determines, after consultation with the Minister of Natural Resources, that a proposed plan or project:

- (a) may generate an unusual amount of public or Government concern;
- (b) may have unusual or significant potential environmental impacts not adequately treated in the pertinent planning exercise; or
- (c) would otherwise warrant an environmental assessment,

the Minister of the Environment may, by written notice to the Minister of Natural Resources, direct that an environmental assessment be prepared for the plan or project in which event the plan or project will not be exempt under this exemption order.

7. Where the Minister of the Environment has given written notice to the Minister of Natural Resources that he is considering the application of Condition 6 to a plan or project, MNR shall not implement the plan or project until 45 days have elapsed from the giving of notice or the Minister of the Environment gives written notice to the Minister of Natural Resources that it is not proposed to require an environmental assessment.

8. During the period covered by this exemption order, the Ministry of Natural Resources will continue to comply with the Environmental Protection Act and the Provincial Parks Program shall be planned, implemented and managed according to the following provincial parks' guidelines and policies:

- Ontario Provincial Parks Policy
- Ontario Provincial Parks Planning and Management Policies
- Provincial Park Management Planning Guidelines—1983
- Park Management and Operating Plan Format
- Landscape Design Principles and Guidelines
- Visitor Services Interim Policy.

9. The guidelines and policies specified in Condition 8 and any revisions or additions to these guidelines and policies will be made available for public inspection upon request by MNR and will be forwarded to the Environmental Assessment Branch of the Ministry of the Environment.

10. Those plans and projects planned under the previous exemption (MNR-30/4 filed as Ontario Regulation 723/83), but not implemented by the date of its expiry, may continue to proceed in accordance with the conditions of this exemption order.

11. Those plans and projects planned under this exemption order, but not fully implemented by the date of expiry of this exemption order, will have their status under the Act reviewed in connection with the review of the class environmental assessment for the Provincial Parks Program and, if provided for in conditions of approval issued in connection with the undertaking, may continue to proceed in accordance with such conditions.

12. This exemption order expires on October 31, 1985 unless the Ministry of Natural Resources has submitted a class environmental assessment under the Act for the Provincial Parks Program undertaking in which event, this exemption order shall remain in effect until the date of a decision being made with respect to the approval of the undertaking dealt with in the class environmental assessment. ENVIRONMENTAL ASSESSMENT ACT

O. Reg. 711/84.

Exemption—Ministry of Natural Resources—MNR-35/3.

Made—October 26th, 1984.

Approved—October 26th, 1984.

Filed—November 2nd, 1984.

ORDER MADE UNDER THE ENVIRONMENTAL ASSESSMENT ACT

EXEMPTION—MINISTRY OF NATURAL RESOURCES—MNR-35/3

Having received a request from the Minister of Natural Resources that an undertaking, namely:

seismic survey activities of the Ontario Geological Survey which include the use of explosives as wave generation sources,

be exempt from the application of the Act pursuant to Section 29; and

- A. The Crown and the public will be interfered with by the unnecessary expense in preparing and reviewing environmental assessments for an undertaking which has minimal and predictable impacts on the environment.

Having weighed such injury, damage, or interference against the betterment of the people of the whole or any part of Ontario by the protection, conservation and wise management in Ontario of the environment which would result from the undertaking being subject to the application of the Act;

I am of the opinion that it is in public interest to order and order that the undertaking is exempt from the application of the Act for the following reasons:

- A. The Ministry of Natural Resources has prepared guidelines for the planning of seismic survey activities which employ explosives. Application of the guidelines enables the prediction and mitigation of associated environmental impacts, as demonstrated by the supporting documentation submitted with this request for this exemption.

- B. The guidelines referred to in Reason A:

- (1) incorporate MNR's Field Environmental Planning Procedure and considerations to ensure that possible environmental effects are identified and mitigated;

- (2) provide for affected public and government notification of activities and participation in identifying and addressing related environmental concerns; and

(3) allow for an environmental assessment to be prepared for an activity with controversial or significant impacts, and submitted for review under the Environmental Assessment Act.
- C. Seismic surveying, which utilizes explosive-generated shock waves to record geological information is necessary for continued mineral resource management.
- D. The guidelines referred to in Reason A have been:

(1) developed in consultation with the Environmental Assessment Branch of the Ministry of the Environment;

(2) circulated to affected government agencies; and

(3) incorporate the concerns of those agencies.

This exemption is subject to the following terms and conditions:

1. The Ontario Geological Survey as well as the involved District office of the Ministry of Natural Resources will adhere to the provisions set out in the guidelines referred to in Reason A.
2. The guidelines submitted to MOE as supporting documentation be placed in the Public Record for this exemption order.
3. Where the Minister of the Environment determines, after consultation with the Minister of Natural Resources, that a proposed plan or project:

(a) may generate an unusual amount of public or Government concern;

(b) may have unusual or significant potential environmental impacts not adequately treated in the pertinent planning exercise;

the Minister of the Environment may, by written notice to the Minister of Natural Resources, direct that an environmental assessment be prepared for the plan or project in which event the plan or project will not be exempt under this order.

4. Where the Minister of the Environment has given written notice to the Minister of Natural Resources that he is considering the application of Condition 3 to a plan or project, MNR shall not implement the plan or project until 45 days have elapsed from the giving of notice or the Minister of the Environment gives written notice to the Minister of Natural Resources that it is not proposed to require an individual environmental assessment.
5. Where the carrying out of a project requires that some activity for which an environmental assessment has been done and an approval to proceed received, be conducted, that project shall be carried out in accordance with the Environmental Assessment and approval to proceed and is not exempt by this order. Occupational Health and Safety Act

NOTICE

A Proposed Control Strategy for Solvents

The Occupational Health and Safety Division is considering possible control strategies to ensure that the health of workers who may be exposed to solvents is protected. Because of the number of solvents in use and the variety of uses to which they may be put, the Division is considering the development of a generic regulation to control the exposure of workers to solvents. This notice outlines the approach being considered and provides interested parties with an opportunity to comment on the approach. For purposes of this notice solvents means those substances included in the attached Preliminary Schedule of Solvents.

Background

The term "solvent" is applied to a large number of chemical substances that are used to dissolve other materials. Solvents are major ingredients in a wide variety of products such as paints, lacquers, varnishes, paint removers, adhesives, and degreasing and cleaning agents. Large quantities of solvents are used in the processing of food, chemicals, rubber and plastics. In addition, many solvents have major non-solvent uses as chemical intermediates, fuels, and as components of a wide variety of products.

The use of solvents and products containing solvents is widespread in many types of work places and large numbers of workers are potentially exposed to these substances. In many work places small quantities of solvents may be used either in continuous processes or in batch operations.

The Occupational Health and Safety Division has reviewed background information on solvents, including a report entitled "Occupational Exposure to Certain Chlorinated Hydrocarbons (Trichloroethylene, Tetrachloroethylene and methyl Chloroform)", by Concord Scientific Corporation. This report has been placed in the district offices of the Ministry of Labour, and is available for viewing in the Ministry Library, 400 University Avenue, 10th Floor, Toronto, Ontario.

Control Strategy

Based on a review of the background information, consideration is being given to the regulation of solvents as a generic class, for the following reasons:

- solvents are in widespread use;
- large numbers of workers are potentially exposed to solvents; and
- exposure to solvents may result in a variety of adverse health effects.

It is intended that the regulation apply to a substantial number of substances, such as those in the attached Preliminary Schedule of Solvents. The substances on this list are contained in "Threshold Limit Values for Chemical Substances and Physical Agents in the Work Environment with Intended Changes for 1984-85", published by the American Conference of Governmental Industrial Hygienists, and are listed as solvents in the Documentation of the Threshold Limit Values, or in reference volumes such as the Merck Index. This list may be subdivided into a number of Schedules to take into account the considerable range of toxicities inherent in the substances. Three such Schedules are being considered, as follows:

- Schedule 1: Substances such as acetone which are not known to cause serious toxic effects, other than irritation of mucous membranes, or narcotic or anesthetic effects, at exposure levels likely to be encountered in occupational settings.

Schedule 2: Substances such as n-hexane which may result in toxic effects on the nervous system, or on organs such as liver, kidneys, heart or lungs, or other serious or irreversible effects as a result of acute or chronic overexposure.

Schedule 3: Substances, including carcinogens such as chloroform, for which a threshold dose for the toxic effect cannot be defined.

Regulatory requirements would be tailored to the particular needs of each Schedule. For example, for substances in Schedule 3, in addition to the exposure limit which may be established, an additional duty would be placed on employers to reduce exposures to the lowest practical level. Two options are being considered in relation to health surveillance. One option involves general health surveillance for all workers exposed to substances listed in Schedules 2 and 3, including appropriate clinical tests for workers exposed to specified substances. The second option would limit health surveillance to workers exposed to those substances in Schedules 2 and 3 for which relevant clinical tests are available.

Before making further decisions on the proposed control strategy for solvents, the Ministry is seeking comments on the appropriateness of this course of action, and on any issues arising from this action which may be of concern to interested parties. A working draft regulation with attached Schedules has been developed to assist interested parties in understanding the approach under consideration by the Ministry. This working draft regulation with the schedules is available for review from the Program Development Unit at the address below.

The Ministry is particularly interested in receiving comments and suggestions on the following topics:

- the suitability of covering solvents in a single regulation;
- the feasibility of including all the types of requirements found in existing designated substance regulations;
- the proposed list of solvents to be included in the Schedules, and whether any substances should be added to or removed from this list;
- the feasibility of subdividing the list of solvents in the attached Preliminary Schedule into a number of Schedules as outlined, and appropriate classification of solvents into the Schedules;
- the concept of adopting exposure limits based primarily on the American Conference of Governmental Industrial Hygienists Threshold Limit Values;
- the method for calculating exposure limits for exposure to mixtures of solvents;
- the issue of health surveillance for workers exposed to solvents contained in Schedules 2 and 3; and
- the appropriateness of and basis for an exemption for an industry sector from any or all provisions of a designated substance regulation for solvents.

Comments should be submitted by March 25, 1985, and should be addressed to:

Occupational Health and Safety Act

CODE FOR RESPIRATORY EQUIPMENT FOR BENZENE

MINISTRY OF LABOUR
OCCUPATIONAL HEALTH AND SAFETY DIVISION

October 29, 1984

TYPE OF RESPIRATOR REQUIRED

The respiratory equipment provided by an employer and used by a worker shall meet or exceed the following requirements:

Concentration of Airborne Benzene	Type of Respirator Required
Less than or equal to 50 ppm	Air purifying chemical cartridge respirator with organic vapour cartridges and half or full facepiece.
Greater than 50 ppm	Supplied air respirator with a full facepiece or hood in pressure-demand or other positive pressure or continuous flow mode (Type C) or self-contained breathing apparatus with a full facepiece operated in pressure demand.
Escape	Any escape self-contained breathing apparatus or any air purifying chemical cartridge respirator with organic vapour cartridges and half or full facepiece.

- Notes:
1. Vapours can be defined as the gaseous form of a substance which is normally either a liquid or a solid at ordinary temperatures and pressures.
 2. Since the odor threshold is 5 ppm or higher, the organic vapour cartridges must be replaced at the beginning of each work shift or after 8 hour's use.
 3. Respirators need not be worn if the time-weighted average exposure of a worker is less than 5 ppm. However, if a worker wishes to use a respirator, the correct type of respirator must be worn.
 4. Supplied air respirator does not include a powered air-purifying respirator.

GENERAL REQUIREMENTS FOR THE USE OF RESPIRATORS

1. Subject to the Table in this Code, respiratory protective equipment shall be used in accordance with the procedure specified by the equipment manufacturer.
2. Written standard operating procedures governing the selection and use of respirators shall be established.
3. Written procedures on use and care of respirators shall be reviewed with workers.
4. Workers shall be trained in the proper use and limitations of respirators.
5. Respirators shall be fitted so that there is an effective seal between the respirator and the worker's face.
6. Where practicable, the respirators shall be assigned to individual workers for their exclusive use.
7. Compressed air, compressed oxygen, liquid air and liquid oxygen used for respirators shall meet CSA standards when applicable.
8. Respirators shall be regularly cleaned, disinfected and inspected. Those issued for the exclusive use of one worker shall be cleaned after each day's use, or more often if necessary, while those used by more than one worker shall be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected after each use.

9. Worn or deteriorated parts shall be replaced.
10. Respirators for emergency use, such as self-contained devices, shall be thoroughly tested at least once a month, and serviced after each use.
11. All respirators and replacement parts shall be stored in a convenient, clean and sanitary location.
12. Persons shall not be assigned to tasks requiring use of respirators unless they are physically able to perform the work and use the equipment.
13. Workers required to wear respirators who experience breathing difficulty while using respirators shall be referred to a physician for evaluation.
14. Records of frequency of use by the worker of respiratory equipment and its type shall be kept.

BENZENE

MINISTRY OF LABOUR

AIR SAMPLING METHOD FOR BENZENE1. Principle of the Sampling Method

Air, possibly containing benzene, is drawn at a specified flow rate for a known duration through a glass tube containing 20/40 mesh activated charcoal. The sample is analyzed for benzene by desorption of activated charcoal with carbon disulfide and then by gas chromatographic assay of the solvent extract. The method suggested may also be used for area samples by placing a sampling train on a suitable support at a strategically selected location.

2. Equipment

The sampling train used to obtain an air sample of benzene is to include the following components and satisfy the criteria suggested:

- (1) A battery operated portable pump which:
 - (a) is capable of delivering, for 6-8 hours not less than 0.20 litre of air per minute with the glass tube containing activated charcoal in the sampling train. The maximum deviation from the prescribed flow rate is not to exceed 5% and it is suggested that the pump be equipped with a pulsation damper;
 - (b) is intrinsically safe, i.e. certified by an accepted agency as safe for use in potentially explosive atmospheres;
 - (c) includes a mechanism for calibration and control of flow rate;
 - (d) has an on-off switch and flow rate control or adjustment mechanism which are as tamper-proof as possible.

- (2) A sample collection device (glass tube) which is constructed from glass tubing approximately 70 millimetres (mm) in length, 4.0 mm in inner diameter and 6.0 mm in outer diameter and which contains, in sequence, the following materials:

- (a) a plug of silanized glass wool immediately behind the inlet port;
- (b) 100 mg of 20/40 mesh activated charcoal in the front section;
- (c) a 2 mm portion of urethane foam;
- (d) 50 mg of 20/40 mesh activated charcoal in the back-up section; and
- (e) a 3 mm long plug of urethane foam immediately before the outlet port.

Each tube is flame-sealed at both ends and is supplied with two plastic caps for sealing the tube after it has been used for air sampling.

- (3) A tube holder which:
 - (a) includes an alligator clip for attachment to clothing;
 - (b) includes an adapter for flexible tubing to ensure a leak-proof fit for the sample collection device; and
 - (c) provides adequate protection against tube breakage.
- (4) Tubing of sufficient length with appropriate wall thickness to prevent collapsing when air is drawn through and with appropriate inner diameter which will provide a leak-proof fit to the tube holder and to the inlet port of the portable pump.

- (5) A thermometer for ambient air temperature measurement, accurate to $\pm 1^{\circ}\text{C}$.
- (6) A barometer for measuring atmospheric pressure, accurate to ± 5 mm Hg (0.67 kPa).

3. Sampling Procedure

(1) Preparation of pumps:

- (a) The pump battery pack shall be fully charged, according to the manufacturer's instructions, before use. After a pump, with the fully-charged battery pack, has been operated for as long as recommended by the manufacturer, another fully-charged battery pack shall be substituted for the used one if continued operation of the same pump on the same day is intended.
- (b) Flow meters or constant flow devices on the pumps shall be calibrated at 0.20 L/min with the charcoal tube in line by using a primary standard, such as a bubble meter, and the recommended procedure in the manufacturer's instructions for using such a primary standard apparatus, after:

- (i) not more than 40 hours of operation;
- (ii) receiving unusually harsh or potentially damaging treatment;
- (iii) being disassembled for maintenance.

(2) Sampling:

- (a) Assemble the sampling train by connecting one end of the tubing to the inlet port of the pump and the other end to the adapter on the tube holder. The ends of the glass tube are broken to form openings of at least 2 mm before it is inserted into the tube holder.

- (b) Check for air leaks in the sampling train by turning on the pump and sealing the open end of the tube. The air flow indicator on a pump with a flow meter should drop to the zero flow position and oscillate slightly. If this does not occur, find and either repair the leak if possible, or replace the faulty component.
- (c) Label the tube with an appropriate sample number.
- (d) Attach the pump preferably to the worker's belt or place it in a pocket, and fix the tube holder to the worker's clothing, as near as possible to the breathing zone, with the tube vertical and the air inlet port facing upward. Ensure that the sampling train will not interfere with the worker's normal duties.
- (e) Check again that the sampling train is properly assembled and switch on the pump. Allow the flow rate to stabilize for a short duration, then adjust the rate to the pre-calibrated mark of 0.20 L/min, if the pump has a flow meter. Pumps with constant flow devices shall not be reset after the flow rate control mechanism has been calibrated to deliver air at this rate. A calibrated external flow meter may be used to check the air flow rate.
- (f) Note the following information for each sampling train:
 - (i) date of sampling;
 - (ii) company name;
 - (iii) model and serial number of the sampling pump;

- (iv) calibration date of the sampling pump;
 - (v) name of worker being monitored;
 - (vi) job title;
 - (vii) work or operation performed;
 - (viii) tube or sample number;
 - (ix) air flow rate;
 - (x) time of initiation of sampling.
- (g) Ensure that for any sampling performed during any survey, two control or blank charcoal tubes are obtained from the same source and the same batch as the sample tubes. These blank tubes are handled in the same manner as the sample tubes (break, seal and transport) except that no air is drawn through them.
- (h) The maximum sampling duration for obtaining an air sample shall be selected to ensure that breakthrough will not occur. A maximum sampling duration of 100 minutes would be appropriate in most cases. A shorter sampling duration should be used to avoid significant breakthrough if a high concentration of benzene and/or the presence of other organic solvent vapours is known or suspected. However, the minimum sampling duration shall be selected so that a sufficient amount of benzene is collected for the purposes of determining a time-weighted average. A minimum sampling duration of 50 minutes would be appropriate in most cases. A sufficient number of sequential air samples should be taken to cover a full workshift or operation during which the worker is exposed to benzene. When it is necessary to obtain a better estimate of the worker's time-weighted average exposure, air sampling should be conducted for a sufficient number of workshifts or days in a work week.
- (i) During any sampling interval, the sampling train shall be checked periodically to ensure that it is functioning properly. The air flow rate shall not be readjusted after the initial flow rate is set. If the flow rate changes significantly, terminate sampling and take another sample.
- (j) The ambient air temperature and pressure in the sampling area, if required, shall be recorded at least once.
- (k) When another substance is known or suspected to be present in the air, such information, including the suspected identity, should be recorded since the compound may interfere with the analysis of benzene.
- (l) To terminate sampling, perform the following sequence of steps:
- (i) check the air flow rate just prior to termination of air sampling;
 - (ii) record the time of termination of sampling;
 - (iii) switch off the pump and carefully remove the sampling train from the worker;
 - (iv) remove the glass tube and cap the inlet and outlet ports;
 - (v) pack the capped tubes tightly to minimize breakage and ship them to a laboratory in an airtight plastic container placed inside a thermos containing ice.

(m) Where a maximum concentration determination is required, it shall be determined by following the procedure specified above with the following exceptions:

(i) An air sample should be taken for a short period of time, generally 15 minutes, in order to allow accurate determination of the concentration of benzene; and

(ii) a sufficient number of air samples should be taken during the time periods when peak concentrations are anticipated from a knowledge of the work process, work operation, work cycle, or work practices.

(n) A sample of the bulk sample, known or suspected to contain benzene, should also be submitted to the laboratory in a glass container with a screw cap lined with an inert material such as polytetrafluoroethylene (PTFE). This sample should not be transported in the same shipping container as the sample tubes.

(2) Corrections of analytical results for the field blank are made for each sample, provided that the various amounts of analyte in all sample tubes are greater than the amount of analyte in the field blank tubes.

(3) When the amount of benzene in the back-up section exceeds 25% of the total benzene found in both the front and back-up sections of a sample tube, there has been a significant breakthrough and the concentration of benzene determined for the sample is likely underestimated. If a significant breakthrough is found in most of the samples analyzed, the sampling strategy used should be reviewed and, if necessary, revised.

(4) The concentration of benzene in an air sample can be calculated in parts per million by volume (ppm) by using the following equation:

$$C = 0.313 \times A \times \frac{760}{P} \times \frac{T + 273}{F \times t \times 298}$$

where C = concentration of benzene in ppm

A = corrected amount of benzene in the sample tube in µg

F = air flow rate in litres per minute

T = temperature in °C

P = pressure in mm

t = sampling duration in minutes

4. Analysis and Calculation of Results

(1) Follow the analytical method entitled "Determination of Benzene on Charcoal Used for Air Sampling" in carrying out the analyses of sample tubes for benzene.

THE DETERMINATION OF BENZENE ON CHARCOAL
USED FOR AIR SAMPLING

1. Principle of Method

- (1) Air, possibly containing benzene, is drawn at a specified flow rate for a known duration through a glass tube containing charcoal to adsorb the organic substances present. The tube is then closed with the supplied plastic caps and kept cool (4°C) pending analysis.
- (2) The tube is scored with a file in front of the first portion of charcoal and broken open. The charcoal is transferred to a small, stoppered sample container and the analyte is desorbed with carbon disulfide.
- (3) A known volume of the solvent extract is injected into a gas chromatograph (GC).
- (4) The detector response to the benzene present in the sample is determined and compared with that of appropriate standards.

2. Apparatus

- (1) Gas chromatograph equipped with a flame ionisation detector (FID).
- (2) Column (3.0 m x 3.2 mm OD stainless steel) packed with 10% FFAP stationary phase on 80/100 mesh Chromosorb W/AW-DMCS.

Note: Other contaminants collected together with benzene may modify the choice of column packing. Other columns may give an equivalent performance.

- (3) An electronic integrator or some other suitable method for measuring detector response.

- (4) 5 mL sample containers with caps lined with an inert material such as polytetrafluoroethylene (PTFE).
- (5) Microliter syringes: 10 uL and other convenient sizes for preparing standards.
- (6) Pipettes: 1.0 mL delivery pipettes.
- (7) Volumetric flasks: 1.0, 5.0 and 10.0 mL sizes for preparing standard solutions.
- (8) Pressure-reducing valves: a 2-gauge, 2-stage pressure-reducing valve and appropriate hose connections are needed for each tank of compressed gas used.
- (9) A rotary shaker.

3. Reagents

- (1) Carbon disulfide, chromatographic quality.
- (2) Benzene, reagent grade.
- (3) Hexane, reagent grade.
- (4) Purified nitrogen.
- (5) Prepurified hydrogen.
- (6) Predried purified air.
- (7) Deionized water.

4. Procedure

- (1) Cleaning of equipment:
 - (a) Before use, all new glassware is soaked to remove any residual grease or chemicals.
 - (b) Glassware is cleaned by soaking in an approximately one in five dilution of concentrated nitric acid in water for at least 6 hours, and then is rinsed thoroughly with tap water and deionized water, in that order, and then dried.

(2) Analysis of sample:

(a) Preparation of sample: Each charcoal tube is scored with a file in front of the first portion of charcoal and broken open. The glass wool is removed and discarded. The charcoal in the first (larger) section is transferred to a 1 mL stoppered sample container. The polyurethane foam partition separating the front and back portions of charcoal is removed and discarded; the second portion is transferred to another stoppered container. These two portions are analyzed separately.

(b) Desorption of samples: Immediately prior to analysis 1.0 mL of carbon disulfide is pipetted into each sample container. (All work with carbon disulfide is to be performed in a hood). Tests indicate that, with agitation on a rotary shaker, desorption is complete in 30 minutes.

(c) GC conditions: The typical operating conditions for the gas chromatograph are:

(i) 20 mL/min (gauge pressure 200 kPa) nitrogen carrier gas flow.

(ii) 250°C injector temperature.

(iii) 300°C detector temperature.

(iv) 90°C column temperature.

(d) A measured volume of sample is injected into the GC and the area of the sample peak is measured, preferably by means of an electronic integrator.

(e) All blank tubes are analyzed in accordance with the total procedure.

(f) It is also necessary to determine the blank value for the batch of charcoal used to prepare the sample tubes.

5. Calibration and Standards

It is convenient to express concentration of standards in terms of µg/mL carbon disulfide. The density of benzene (0.878 g/mL) is used to convert µg into microliters (µL) for convenient measurement with a syringe. A series of standards, varying in concentration over the range 10 to 5,000 µg/mL, is prepared and analyzed under the same GC conditions and during the same time period as the unknown samples. A standard curve is prepared by plotting concentration in µg/1.0 mL versus peak area and is found to be linear over the concentration range 10 to 5,000 µg/mL.

Note: Since no internal standard is used in this method, standard solutions shall be included with each batch of samples analyzed.

6. Determination of Desorption Efficiency

(1) The desorption efficiency of benzene may vary from one batch of charcoal to another and from one laboratory to another. Thus, it is necessary to determine, at least once, the percentage of the benzene that is removed in the desorption process, for each batch of charcoal used. The percentage recovery is variable with the amount of benzene present and the concentration range used must cover that found in the samples.

Note: Unless a vapour chamber is available for the preparation of suitable spiked samples, the NIOSH technique of spiking charcoal with known amounts of a solution of benzene dissolved in hexane should be followed.

- (z) Procedure for determining desorption efficiency:
- (a) 100 mg of activated charcoal is measured into a 1 mL glass vial.
- (b) A known amount of a hexane solution of benzene containing 43.9 µg benzene/µL hexane (i.e. 50 µL benzene/mL hexane) is injected directly into the activated charcoal with a microliter syringe and the vial is sealed using a screw cap with a septum faced with an inert material such as polytetrafluoroethylene (PTFE).

- (c) The prepared vials are allowed to stand overnight to assure complete adsorption of benzene onto the charcoal. These vials are treated as samples.
- (d) A blank is prepared by measuring 100 mg of activated charcoal into a 1 mL vial, adding to it an amount of hexane equal to that used in the sample preparation and treating it in the manner described above.
- (e) The sample and blank tubes are treated in exactly the same manner as the sample tubes described in sections 4(2)(b) to 4(2)(d).

Desorption efficiency = $\frac{\text{Average weight recovered } (\mu\text{g})}{\text{weight added}}$

Amount of Benzene added to the sample (µg)	Average Amount of Benzene recovered (µg)	Desorption efficiency	No. of samples	% Relative standard deviation
10.0	10.4	1.04	10	5.0
50.0	48.4	0.97	10	2.3
100.0	100.3	1.00	10	1.6

7. Calculations

- (1) Read the weight, in µg, corresponding to each peak area (section 4(2)(d)) from the standard curve. No volume corrections are needed, because the standard curve is based on µg/1.0 mL carbon disulfide and the volume of sample injected is identical to the volume of the standards injected.

- (2) Corrections for the blank shall be made for each sample:

$\mu\text{g} = \mu\text{g sample} - \mu\text{g blank}$

where

$\mu\text{g sample} = \mu\text{g found on front portion of sample tube}$

$\mu\text{g blank} = \mu\text{g found on front portion of blank tube}$

A similar procedure is followed for the back-up sections.

8. Detection Limit

- (1) The detection limit, based on a 2 μL injection, was found to be 10 μg benzene/mL carbon disulfide.

9. Precision

Standard solution being measured ($\mu\text{g/mL}$)	No. of samples	Relative Standard Deviation (%)
10	10	3.65
20	10	0.54
50	10	1.09
100	10	1.20

10. Interferences

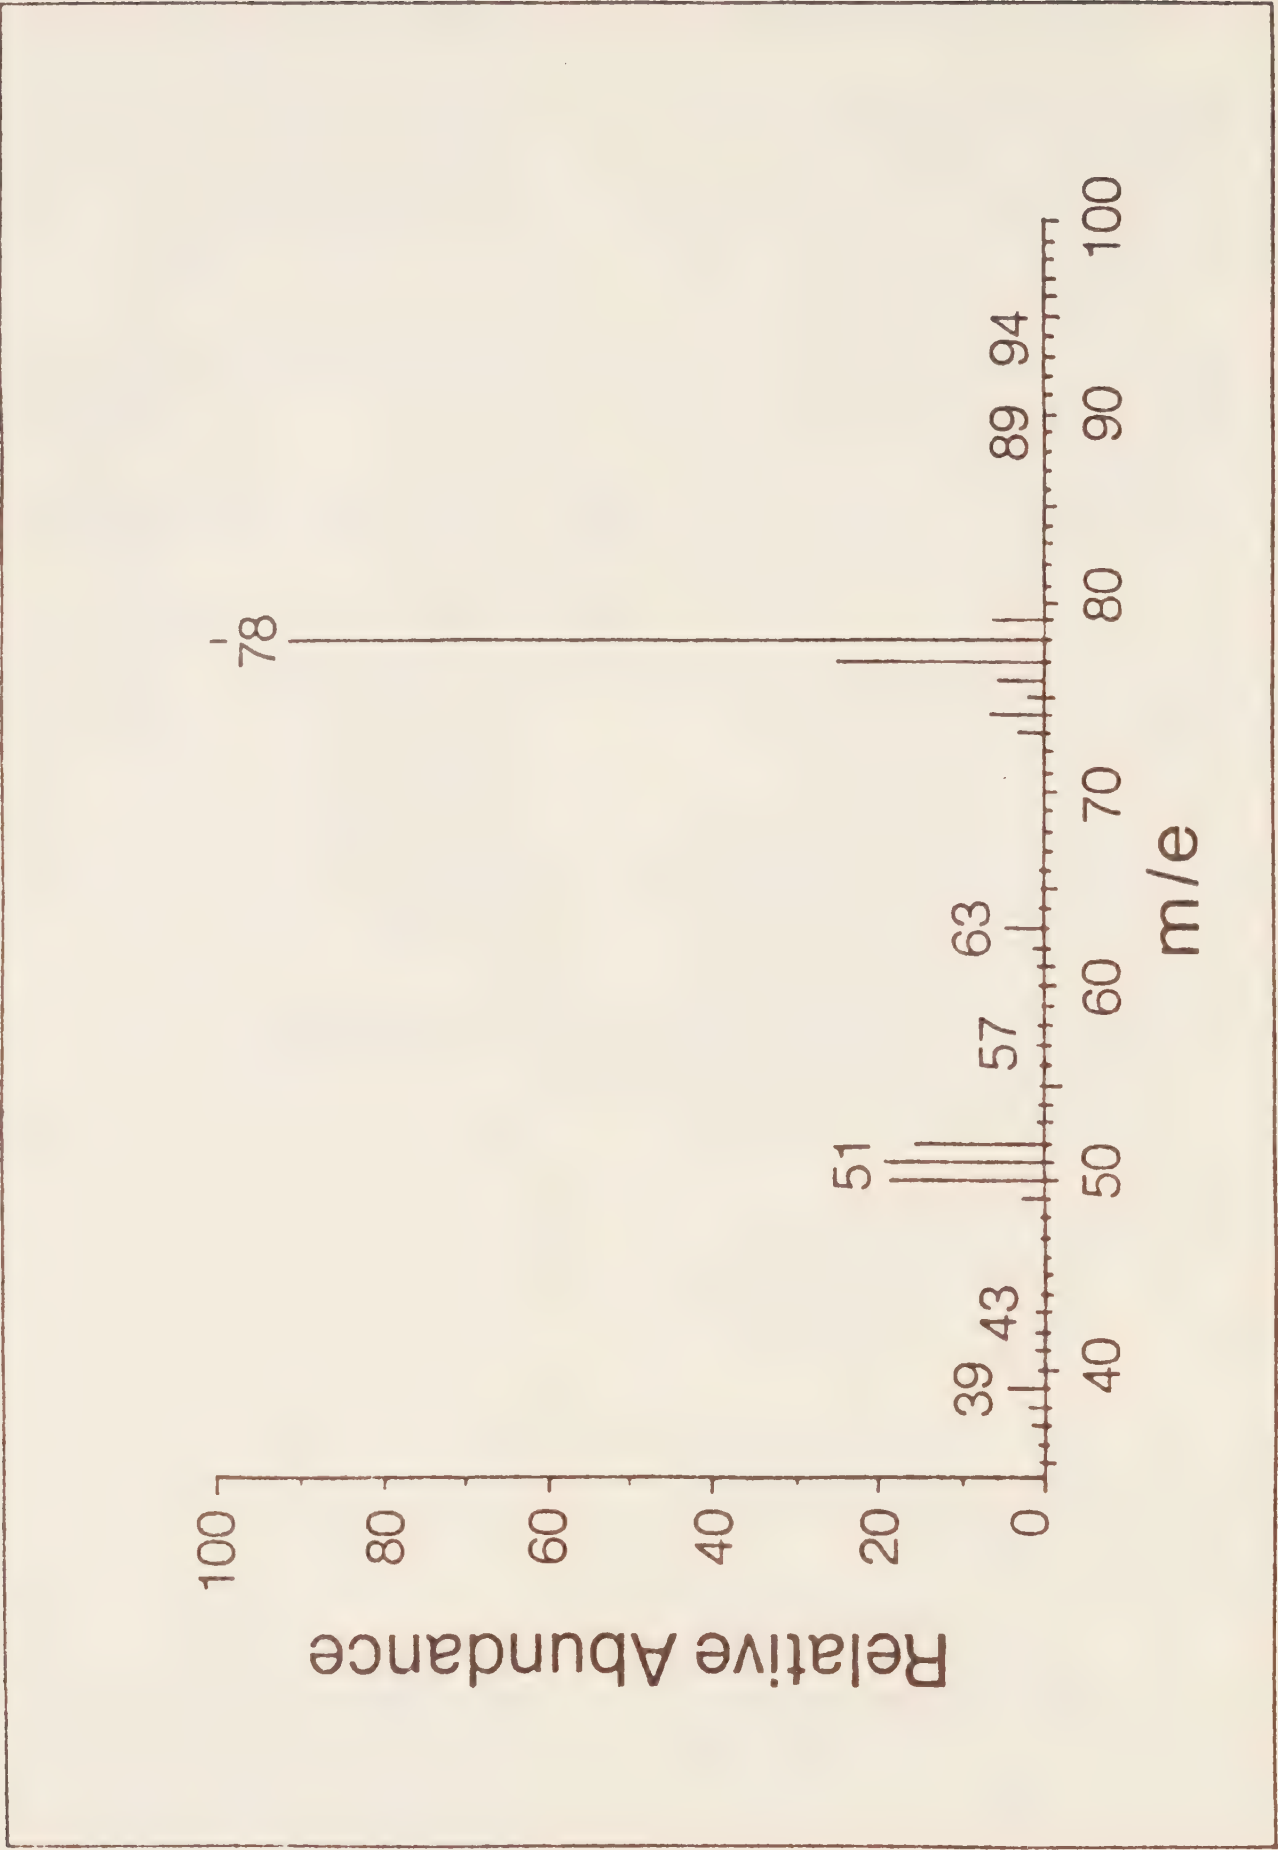

- (1) Any compound which has the same retention time as the analyte at the operating conditions described in this method may interfere. Retention time data for a single GC system does not provide proof of chemical identity; a mass spectrum of the sample may serve to confirm identity (see attached spectrum).

Note: The data listed in sections 6 and 8 were obtained on a Hewlett-Packard 5840A Gas Chromatograph.

The mass spectrum was obtained on a Hewlett-Packard 5985 GC/MS system.

The equipment listed above is specified for clarification purposes only and should not be taken as an endorsement by the Ministry.

AIR SAMPLING METHOD FOR ACRYLONITRILE1. Principle of the Sampling Method

Air, possibly containing acrylonitrile, is drawn at a specified flow rate for a known duration through a glass tube containing activated charcoal. The sample is analyzed for acrylonitrile by desorption of activated charcoal with carbon disulfide and then by gas chromatographic assay of the solvent extract. This method may also be used for collecting an area sample by placing the sampling train on a suitable support in a strategically selected location.

2. Equipment

The sampling train used to obtain an air sample of acrylonitrile is to include the following components and satisfy the criteria suggested:

(1) A battery operated portable pump which:

- (a) is capable of delivering, for 6–8 hours, not less than 0.20 litre of air per minute with the glass tube containing activated charcoal in the sampling train. The maximum deviation from the prescribed flow rate is not to exceed $\pm 5\%$ and it is suggested that the pump be equipped with a pulsation damper;
- (b) is intrinsically safe, i.e., certified by an accepted agency as safe for use in potentially explosive atmospheres;
- (c) includes a mechanism for calibration and control of flow rate; and
- (d) has an on-off switch and flow rate control or adjustment mechanism which are as tamper-proof as possible.

(2) A sample collection device which is constructed from glass tubing approximately 70 mm in length, 4.0 mm in inner diameter and 6.0 mm in outer diameter and which contains in sequence the following materials:

- (a) a plug of silanized glass wool immediately behind the inlet port;
- (b) 100 mg of 20/40 mesh activated charcoal in the front section;
- (c) a 2 mm long plug of urethane foam;
- (d) 50 mg of 20/40 mesh activated charcoal in the back-up section; and
- (e) a 3 mm long plug of urethane foam immediately before the outlet port.

Each tube is flame-sealed at both ends and is supplied with two plastic caps for sealing the tube after it has been used for air sampling.

(3) A tube holder which:

- (a) includes an alligator clip for attachment to clothing;
- (b) includes an adapter for flexible tubing to ensure a leak-proof fit for the sample collection device; and
- (c) provides adequate protection against tube breakage.

(4) Tubing of sufficient length with appropriate wall thickness to prevent collapsing when air is drawn through and with appropriate inner diameter which will provide a leak-proof fit to the tube holder and to the inlet port of the portable pump.

(5) A thermometer for ambient air temperature measurement, accurate to $\pm 1^{\circ}\text{C}$.

(6) A barometer for measuring atmospheric pressure, accurate to ± 5 mm Hg (0.67 kPa).

3. Sampling Procedure

(1) Preparation of pumps:

- (a) The pump battery pack shall be fully charged according to the manufacturer's instructions before use. After a pump with a fully-charged battery pack has been operated for a duration recommended by the manufacturer, another fully-charged battery pack must be substituted for the used one if continued operation of the same pump on the same day is intended.
- (b) Flow meters or constant flow devices on the pumps shall be calibrated at 0.20 L/min with the charcoal tube in line by using a primary standard, such as a bubble meter, and the recommended procedure in the manufacturer's instructions for using such a primary standard apparatus, after:
 - (i) not more than 40 hours of operation;
 - (ii) receiving unusually harsh or potentially damaging treatment; or
 - (iii) being disassembled for maintenance.

(2) Sampling:

- (a) Assemble the sampling train by connecting one end of the tubing to the inlet port of the pump and the other end to the adapter on the tube holder. The ends of the glass tube are broken to form openings of at least 2 mm before it is inserted into the tube holder.
- (b) Check for air leaks in the sampling train by turning on the pump and sealing the open end of the tube. The air flow indicator on a pump with a flow meter should drop to the zero flow position and oscillate slightly. If this does not occur, find and either repair the leak if possible, or replace the faulty component.

- (c) Label the tube with an appropriate sample number.
- (d) Attach the pump preferably to the worker's belt or place it in a pocket and fix the tube holder to the worker's clothing, as near as possible to the breathing zone, with the tube vertical and the air inlet port facing upward. Ensure that the sampling train will not interfere with the worker's normal duties.
- (e) Check again that the sampling train is properly assembled and switch on the pump. Allow the flow rate to stabilize for a short duration, then adjust the rate to the precalibrated mark of 0.20 L/min, if the pump has a flow meter. Pumps with constant flow devices shall not be reset after the flow rate control mechanism has been calibrated to deliver air at this rate. A calibrated external flow meter may be used to check the air flow rate.
- (f) Note the following information for each sampling train:
 - (i) date of sampling;
 - (ii) company name;
 - (iii) model and serial number of the sampling pump;
 - (iv) calibration date of sampling pump;
 - (v) name of worker being monitored;
 - (vi) job title;
 - (vii) work or operation being performed;
 - (viii) tube or sample number;
 - (ix) air flow rate;
 - (x) time of initiation of sampling.

- (g) Ensure that for any sampling performed during any survey, two control or blank charcoal tubes are obtained from the same source and the same batch as the sample tubes. One of the blank tubes should be handled in the same manner as the sample tubes (break, seal and transport) except that no air is drawn through it.
- (h) The maximum sampling duration for obtaining an air sample shall be selected to ensure that breakthrough will not occur. A maximum sampling duration of 100 minutes would be appropriate in most cases. A shorter sampling duration should be used to avoid significant breakthrough if a high concentration of acrylonitrile and/or the presence of other organic solvent vapours are known or suspected. However, the minimum sampling duration shall be selected so that a sufficient amount of acrylonitrile is collected for purposes of determining a time-weighted average. A minimum sampling duration of 50 minutes would be appropriate in most cases. A sufficient number of sequential air samples should be taken to cover a full workshift or operation during which the worker is exposed to acrylonitrile. Where it is necessary to obtain a better estimate of the worker's time-weighted average exposure, air sampling should be conducted for a sufficient number of workshifts or days in a work week.
- (i) During any sampling interval, the sampling train shall be checked periodically to ensure that it is functioning properly. The air flow rate shall not be readjusted after the initial flow rate is set. If the flow rate changes significantly, terminate sampling and take another sample.
- (j) The ambient air temperature and pressure in the sampling area, if required, shall be recorded at least once.
- (k) When two or more substances are known or suspected to be present in the air, such information, including the suspected identities, should be recorded since these compounds may interfere with the analysis of acrylonitrile.
- (l) To terminate sampling, perform the following sequence of steps:
 - (i) check the air flow rate just prior to termination of air sampling;
 - (ii) record the time of termination of sampling;
 - (iii) switch off the pump and carefully remove the sampling train from the worker;
 - (iv) remove the glass tube and cap the inlet and outlet ports;
 - (v) pack the capped tubes tightly to minimize breakage and ship them to a laboratory in an airtight plastic container placed inside a thermos containing ice.
- (m) Where a maximum concentration determination is required, it shall be determined by following the procedure specified above with the following exceptions:
 - (i) an air sample should be taken for a short period of time, generally 15 minutes, in order to allow accurate determination of the concentration of acrylonitrile; and

- (ii) a sufficient number of air samples should be taken during the time periods when peak concentrations are anticipated from a knowledge of the work process, work operation, work cycle, or work practices.
- (n) A sample of the bulk material known or suspected to contain acrylonitrile should also be submitted to the laboratory in a glass container with a screw cap lined with polytetrafluoroethylene (PTFE). This sample should not be transported in the same shipping container as the sample tubes.
- (3) When the amount of acrylonitrile in the back-up section exceeds 25% of the total acrylonitrile found in both the front and back-up sections of a sample tube, there has been a significant breakthrough and the concentration of acrylonitrile determined for the sample is likely underestimated. If a significant breakthrough is found in most of the samples analyzed, the sampling strategy used should be reviewed and, if necessary, revised before repeat sampling is carried out.
- (4) The concentration of acrylonitrile in the air sample can be calculated in parts per million by volume (ppm) by using the following equation:

$$C = 0.461 A \times \frac{760}{P} \times \frac{T + 273}{298 F \times t}$$

- (f) It is also necessary to determine the blank value for the batch of charcoal used to prepare the sample tubes.

Note: For the detection of low levels of acrylonitrile, a Thermionic Specific Detector, maximized for nitrogen response, is recommended. In this case acetone is used in place of carbon disulfide for desorption, calibration standards and desorption efficiency tests.

5. Calibration and Standards

It is convenient to express the concentration of standards in terms of $\mu\text{g/mL}$ carbon disulfide. The density of acrylonitrile (0.806 g/mL) is used to convert μg into microlitres (μL) for convenient measurement with a syringe calibrated in microlitres. A series of standards, varying in concentration over the range 10 to 1,500 $\mu\text{g/mL}$, is prepared and analyzed under the same GC conditions and during the same time period as the unknown samples. A calibration curve is prepared by plotting concentration in μg acrylonitrile/mL solution versus peak area and is found to be linear over the concentration range 10 to 1,500 $\mu\text{g/mL}$.

Note: Since no internal standard is used in this method, the calibration curve shall be prepared on the day when the samples are analyzed.

6. The Determination of Desorption Efficiency

- (1) The desorption efficiency of a particular compound may vary from one batch of charcoal to another and from one laboratory to another. Thus, it is necessary to determine, at least once, the percentage of the specific compound that is removed in the desorption process, for each batch of charcoal used. The percentage recovery is variable with the amount of compound present and the concentration range used must cover that found in the samples.

Note: Unless a vapour chamber is available for the preparation of suitable spiked samples, the NIOSH technique of spiking samples with known amounts of a solution of acrylonitrile dissolved in hexane should be followed.

(2) Procedure for determining desorption efficiency:

- (a) 100 mg of activated charcoal is placed into a 1 mL glass vial.
- (b) A known amount of a suitable solution of acrylonitrile in hexane (i.e. high range: 200 µg acrylonitrile/µL hexane, low range: 8 µg acrylonitrile/µL hexane) is injected directly into the activated charcoal with a microlitre syringe and the vial is sealed using a PTFE-lined screw cap.

- (c) The prepared vials are allowed to stand overnight to assure complete adsorption of the acrylonitrile onto the charcoal. These vials are referred to as the sample.
- (d) A blank is prepared by measuring 100 mg of activated charcoal into a 1 mL vial, adding to it an amount of hexane equal to that used in the sample preparation and treating it in the manner described above.
- (e) The spiked sample and blank tubes are treated in exactly the same manner as the air sample described in sections 4(2)(b) to 4(2)(d).

Desorption efficiency = $\frac{\text{Average weight recovered } (\mu\text{g})}{\text{weight added } (\mu\text{g})}$

Amount of acrylonitrile added to the sample (µg)	Average amount of acrylonitrile recovered (µg)	Desorption efficiency	% Relative standard deviation (n=10)
5*	3.5	0.700	21.6
50	36.6	0.732	1.9
100	74.3	0.743	1.8

* Data generated with acetone desorption and Thermionic Specific Detector.

7. Calculations

- (1) Read the weight, in μg , corresponding to each peak area (section 4(2)(d)), from the calibration curve. No volume corrections are needed, because the calibration curve is based on μg acrylonitrile/mL carbon disulfide solution, and the volume of sample injected is identical to the volume of the standards injected.

- (2) Corrections for the blank shall be made for each sample:

$$\mu\text{g} = \mu\text{g sample} - \mu\text{g blank}$$

where

$$\mu\text{g sample} = \mu\text{g found on front portion of sample tube}$$

$$\mu\text{g blank} = \mu\text{g found on front portion of blank tube}$$

A similar procedure is followed for the back-up sections.

8. Detection Limit

- (1) The detection limit, based on a 2 μL injection, was found to be 10 μg acrylonitrile/mL carbon disulfide.

9. Precision

Standard solution being measured ($\mu\text{g/mL}$)	% Relative standard deviation ($n=10$)
20	0.7
50	1.8
200	0.3
500	0.8

10. Interference

- (1) Any compound which has the same retention time as acrylonitrile at the operating conditions described in this method may interfere. Retention time data for a single GC system does not provide proof of chemical identity; a mass spectrum of the sample may serve to confirm identity (see attached spectrum).

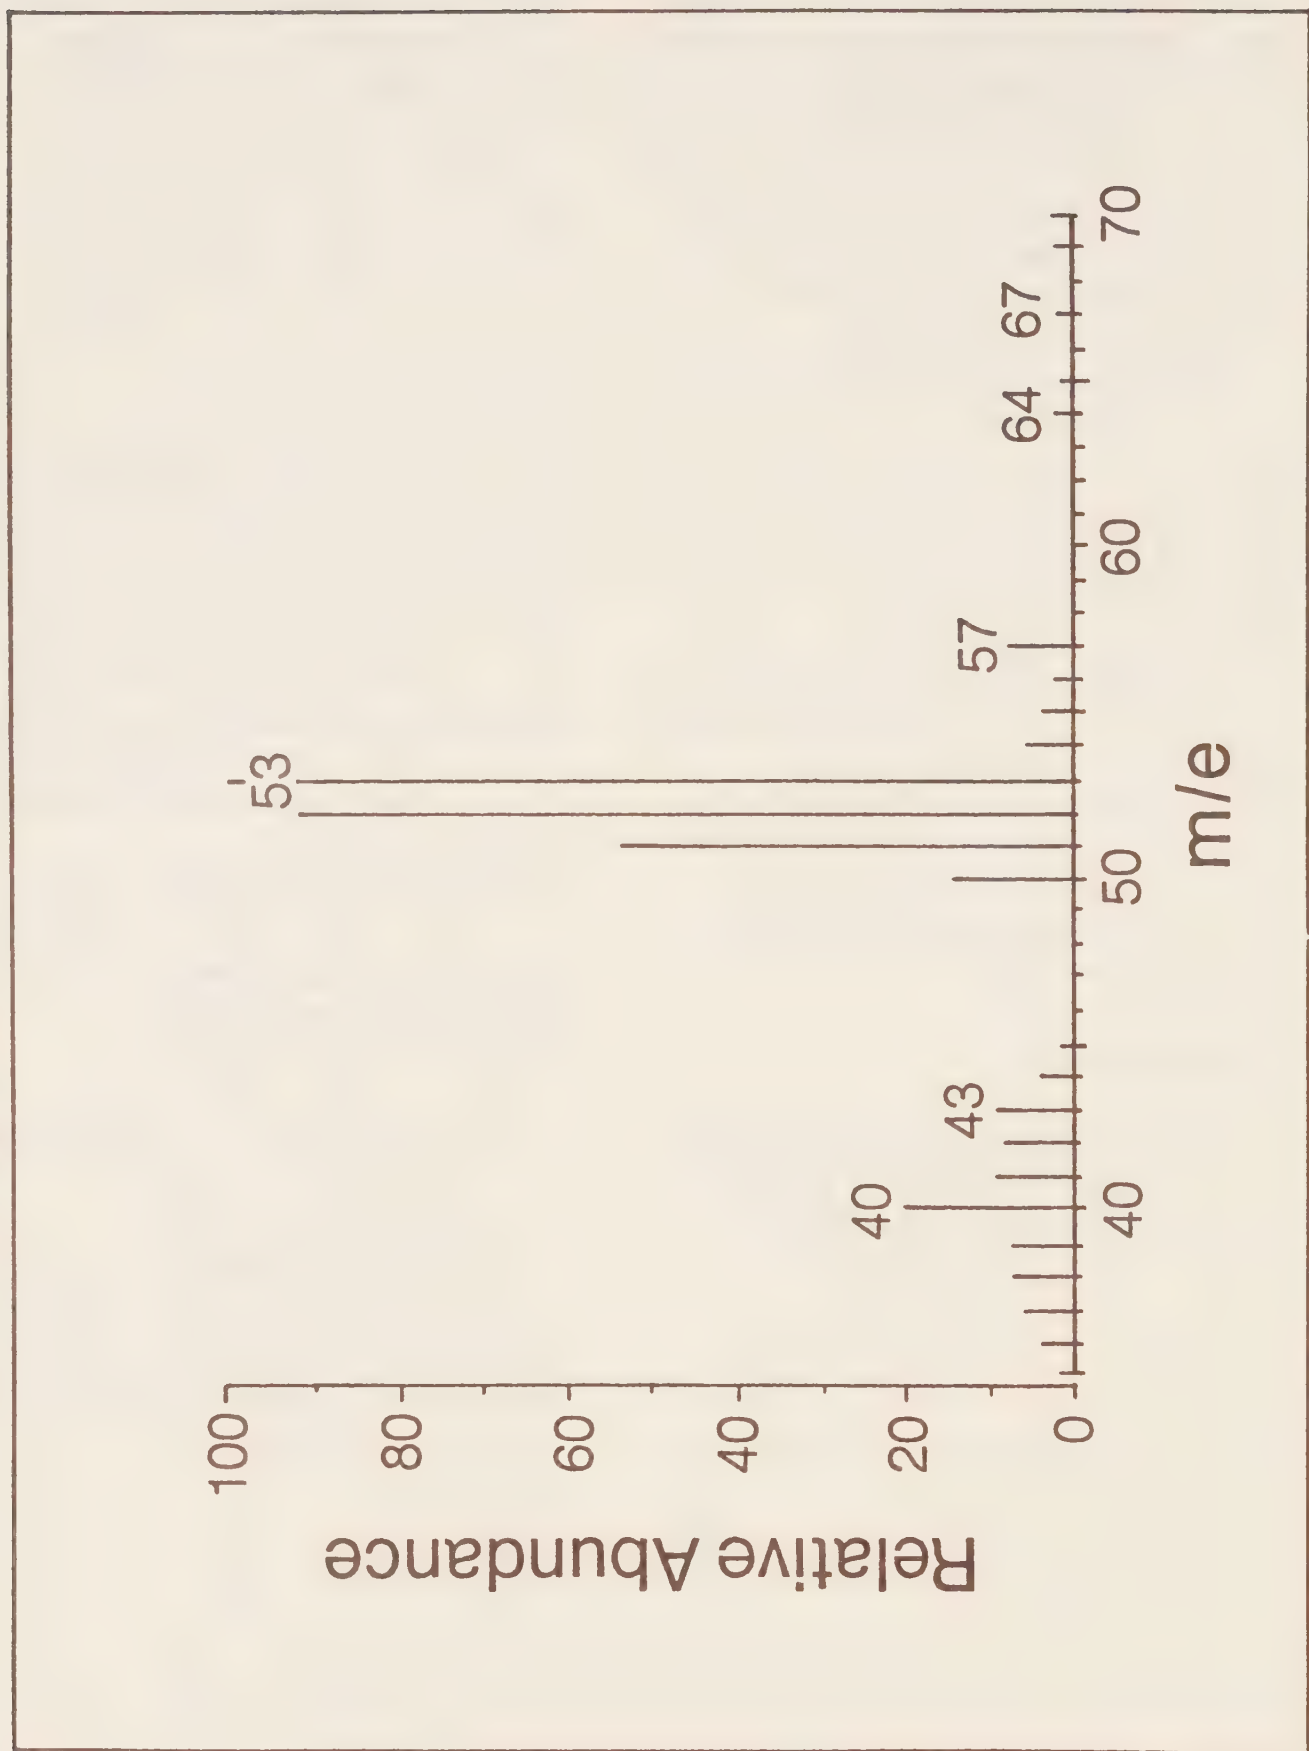

Note: The data listed in sections 6 and 8 were obtained on a Hewlett-Packard 5840A Gas Chromatograph.

The mass spectrum was obtained on a Hewlett-Packard 5985 GC/MS system.

The equipment listed above is specified for clarification purposes only and should not be taken as an endorsement by the Ministry.

SAMPLING AND ANALYTICAL PROCEDURES USED BY THE MINISTRY WILL BE REVIEWED PERIODICALLY AND, IF NECESSARY, REVISED.

CODE FOR MEDICAL SURVEILLANCE
OF ACRYLONITRILE EXPOSED WORKERS

MINISTRY OF LABOUR
OCCUPATIONAL HEALTH AND SAFETY DIVISION

October 30, 1984

MEDICAL SURVEILLANCE PROGRAM

1. Purpose

The objective of a medical surveillance program is to protect the health of workers by:

- (a) identifying workers with conditions which may be aggravated by exposure to acrylonitrile and establishing a baseline measure for determining changes in health;
- (b) evaluating the effects of acrylonitrile exposure on workers;
- (c) enabling remedial action to be taken when necessary; and
- (d) providing health education.

2. Program

The medical surveillance program shall consist of the following:

- (a) pre-employment and pre-placement examinations;
- (b) periodic medical examinations;
- (c) clinical tests;
- (d) health education; and
- (e) record keeping.

3. Medical Examinations

The examination shall include the following:

- (1) History: The initial medical and occupational history shall include enquiry for previous exposure to acrylonitrile, personal habits (smoking), history of present or past dermal, hepatic, gastro-intestinal, cardiovascular, neurological (particularly fainting or convulsions), renal and respiratory disorders.

At the periodic examination the history shall be updated to include:

- (a) history of frequency and duration of exposure to acrylonitrile since previous examination; and
- (b) enquiry for signs and symptoms that may be an indication of acrylonitrile intoxication: e.g.,
 - acute - skin blisters (often not detected for some hours after exposure)
 - eye irritation
 - headaches, weakness
 - nausea, vomiting, diarrhea
 - asphyxia as in cyanide poisoning
 - chronic - liver dysfunction
 - cancer of lung and colon (particularly in workers over 40 years of age).

(2) General Physical Examination: Particular attention shall be directed to those systems which may be affected by acrylonitrile. The examining physician shall determine the frequency of the periodic examination, but it shall be at least once every three (3) years unless indicated earlier from clinical test results.

4. Clinical Tests

Clinical tests may aid in the assessment of a worker's fitness for exposure to acrylonitrile.

- (1) Liver Function Tests: Examination for liver function by blood tests, such as for alanine aminotransferase (ALT; formerly serum glutamic pyruvic transaminase, SGPT), serum aspartate aminotransferase (AST; formerly serum glutamic oxalacetic transaminase, SGOT), gamma-glutamyl transpeptidase (GGTP), serum bilirubin and serum alkaline phosphatase, may aid in the evaluation of the effect of acrylonitrile.

The frequency of testing and the use of these tests depend on the extent of the hazard, and shall be decided by the examining physician.

(2) Fecal Occult Blood Test: This test may be used for selected workers. The examining physician shall decide when it is appropriate for it to be introduced, and the frequency of testing.

(3) X-rays: The necessity for and frequency of X-rays shall be decided by the examining physician.

(4) Acrylonitrile Absorption Tests: These are reported in the literature and may be considered.

(5) Action Levels: An assessment of fitness for work shall be based on the clinical examination in conjunction with the clinical tests. No specific action levels are relevant for the latter.

If symptoms or signs of acrylonitrile intoxication are present the worker shall be removed from acrylonitrile exposure regardless of the clinical test results.

A determination by the examining physician shall be made as to whether the worker is fit with limitations or unfit, and action taken in accordance with section 16 of the Regulation respecting Acrylonitrile. Subsequently, a decision shall be made by the physician as to when the worker may return.

5. Health Education

Personal hygiene is important. Workers shall be advised to wash before eating, drinking and smoking. All workers shall be made aware of the hazards of acrylonitrile and their examination results shall be discussed.

6. Medical History and Examination Records

Under the provisions of the Regulation respecting Acrylonitrile, the examining physician in charge of the medical surveillance program shall maintain health records for each worker examined. Such records should include:

- name in full of worker;
- maiden surname of mother;
- date of birth;
- sex;
- Social Insurance Number;
- date occupations or jobs commenced;
- date occupations or jobs ended;
- the kinds of operations or processes in which the worker was involved;
- concentrations of airborne acrylonitrile to which worker is exposed;
- use of respiratory equipment;
- date of visits to physician's office;
- medical examination reports;
- health assessments;
- results of clinical tests;
- copies of referral letter to a hospital or physician;
- copies of Forms 7 and 8 to the Workers' Compensation Board if completed;
- all relevant correspondence concerning health, and any information concerning the actions taken in response to abnormal clinical tests.

A worker's health records shall be kept in a secure place by the examining physician for:

- (a) a period of forty years from the time such records were first made, or
- (b) a period of twenty years from the time the last of such records were made, whichever is the longer. Where the examining physician or his successor is no longer able or willing to keep the records, the records are to be forwarded to the Chief Physician of the Occupational Health Medical Service of the Ministry of Labour, who will keep them in a secure place.

4. The weekly exposure shall be calculated as follows:

$C_1T_1 + C_2T_2 + \dots + C_nT_n = \text{cumulative weekly exposure}$, where C_1 is the concentration found in an air sample and T_1 is the total time in hours to which the worker is taken to be exposed to concentration C_1 in a week.

5. The time-weighted average exposure shall be calculated by dividing the cumulative weekly exposure by 40. O. Reg. 732/84, Sched.

ENVIRONMENTAL ASSESSMENT ACT SUBCLAUSE 14 (1) (b) (vii) NOTICE OF EXTENSION OF APPROVAL

RE: Class Environmental Assessment for Minor Transmission Facilities

- (b) such later date as the Minister specifies by Notice in writing to the proponent and in THE ONTARIO GAZETTE.

Take notice that I am extending the approval of this undertaking for a period of one year so that condition 5 will now read:

- (a) the earlier of,
 - (i) the date on which approval of the undertaking under a new EA submitted as a result of the re-evaluation required by Condition 4 is received under the Act, and

NOTICE OF APPROVAL TO PROCEED WITH THE UNDERTAKING

RE: An Environmental Assessment for The Bruce Energy Centre, Bruce Township, Bruce County.

Proponent: Ontario Hydro

EA File No: 1-81-0010-000

TAKE NOTICE that the period for requiring a hearing, provided for in the Notice of Acceptance of the Environmental Assessment for the undertaking, expired on October 8, 1984. I have received no notices requiring a hearing by the Environmental Assessment Board with respect to approval to proceed with the undertaking. I received one submission pertaining to the undertaking after giving Notice of Completion of Environmental Assessment Review. I received a second submission after giving Notice of Acceptance of the Environmental Assessment from the same party which discussed further the issues raised in the first submission. I consider that the proponent has adequately addressed the issues raised in the two submissions in the Environmental Assessment, and is able to deal with them appropriately when carrying out the undertaking so that it is not necessary to impose a condition or term on this approval relating to those issues.

I have considered the purpose of the Act, the above Environmental Assessment, the Review and the two submissions received and am of the opinion that approval to proceed with the undertaking should be given.

Accordingly, I hereby give approval to proceed with the undertaking subject to the following term and condition:

- 1. Ontario Hydro shall comply with all of the provisions of the environmental assessment which are herein incorporated by reference.

REASONS:

The reasons for giving approval are:

- 1. I received two submissions pertaining to the undertaking and no notices requiring a hearing by the Environmental Assessment Board after giving the Notice of Completion of Environmental Assessment Review dated July 6, 1984 and after giving the Notice of Acceptance of the Environmental Assessment, dated September 14, 1984. I am not aware of any outstanding issues with respect to this undertaking which suggest that a hearing should be called or that terms and conditions further to the term and condition cited above should be imposed.

Dated at Toronto, the 15th of November, 1984.

ANDREW S. BRANDT,
Minister of the Environment,
15th Floor,

ENVIRONMENTAL ASSESSMENT ACT

O. Reg. 747/84.

Exemption—Ontario Hydro—OH-31.

Made—November 15th, 1984.

Approved—November 15th, 1984.

Filed—November 22nd, 1984.

ORDER MADE UNDER THE ENVIRONMENTAL ASSESSMENT ACT

EXEMPTION—ONTARIO HYDRO—OH-31

Having received a request from Ontario Hydro that an undertaking, namely:

The planning, design, stringing, operation, maintenance and later removal of 230 kilovolt (kV) conductors and insulators on the two 500 kilovolt transmission lines between the Hanmer and Mississagi transformer stations for which Ontario Hydro received an approval under the Environmental Assessment Act dated March 29, 1984, under Order-in-Council 866/84

be exempt from the application of the Act pursuant to section 29; and

Having been advised by Ontario Hydro that if the undertaking is subject to the application of the Act, the following injury, damage or interference with the persons and property indicated will occur:

- A. Ontario Hydro and its customers will face accelerated costs if Ontario Hydro provides 500 kilovolt conductors and insulators for the initial period of 230 kV operation as Ontario Hydro initially proposed in the Environmental Assessment.

Having weighed such injury, damage, or interference against the betterment of the people of the whole or any part of Ontario by the protection, conservation and wise management of the environment in Ontario which would result from the undertaking being subject to the application of the Act;

I am of the opinion that it is in the public interest to order and do order that the undertaking is exempt from the application of the Act for the following reasons:

- A. The undertaking is a minor modification to the method and sequence of construction outlined in the Environmental Assessment entitled Hanmer Transformer Station to Mississagi Transformer Station which was approved under Order-in-Council 866/84.
- B. Ontario Hydro has informed me that the modification to the approved undertaking will result in cost savings to the people of the Province of Ontario.
- C. The undertaking is unlikely to have any significant adverse effects on the environment.

This exemption order is subject to the following terms and conditions:

1. Except for the planning, design, stringing, operation, maintenance and later removal of 230 kilovolt conductors and insulators on the two 500 kV transmission lines, Ontario Hydro will adhere to all the provisions of the approval issued under Order-in-Council 866/84.
2. This exemption shall terminate upon the completion of removal of the 230 kilovolt conductors and insulators on the two 500 kV transmission lines. O. Reg. 747/84.

Mr. Speaker and Members of the Legislative Assembly:

The Government's priority during this fourth session of the thirty-second Parliament of Ontario has been to encourage an economic transformation that will benefit all Ontarians. The 1984 Budget presented a blueprint for economic progress with special emphasis on youth employment and skills training.

The Government's commitment to an Ontario Youth Opportunities program is well under way with the appointment of a Youth Commissioner and with ten initiatives currently helping disadvantaged young people find jobs. The Government has committed 150 million dollars to the job retraining programs and employer assistance to help our existing workforce meet the new challenges of the future.

During this year, Ontario's economic growth has outpaced the Government's budget projections and our Gross Provincial Product is now expected to rise above five per cent this fiscal year. More than 133,000 new jobs have been created and the deficit has been cut by 223 million dollars.

In addition to these measures to stimulate growth and development, my Government undertook a series of initiatives responsive to current needs within the Social and Justice fields.

The Government outlined a new course for the educational system in Ontario by extending financial support to secondary Roman Catholic schools. A Commission was established to guide and advise on the implementation of this reform. In addition, the Education Act was amended to ensure that every French-speaking pupil now has the right to instruction in French. We feel this path will contribute to the progressive and harmonious development of our educational system.

The protection and well being of our children has been of paramount concern to the Government of Ontario. In keeping with this objective, legislation was passed to consolidate, streamline and update various Acts in order to support the autonomy of the family unit and to ensure the protection and best interests of children.

As well, the responsiveness of the Justice system to current needs was enhanced by the Courts of Justice Act, which accomplishes the first major reorganization of the Courts of Ontario in over 50 years. The Act establishes French as an official language of the courts and streamlines their organization, in order to provide equitable and efficient service. Similar responsiveness to current needs was demonstrated in legislation which will accommodate provincial laws to the needs of young people.

Nineteen eighty-four has been an exceptional year. We have been honoured with the visits of His Holiness Pope John Paul II, Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth the Second and His Royal Highness the Duke of Edinburgh. It has been a year to celebrate the rich heritage we all share in Ontario.

Our Bicentennial has provided us with an opportunity to experience the strength of spirit and depth of conviction, that makes this province the land of which we can be truly proud.

In closing, may I take this opportunity to wish you a safe and pleasant holiday season.

Au nom de notre Souveraine, Je vous Remercie,
In our Sovereign's name, I thank you.

Je declare cette session prorogée.
I now declare this session prorogued.

The Government House Leader then said:—

Mr. Speaker and Members of the Legislative Assembly:

It is the will and pleasure of the Honourable the Lieutenant Governor that this Legislative Assembly be prorogued and this Legislative Assembly is accordingly prorogued.

2.30 p.m.

RODERICK LEWIS, Q.C.,
(5945) 52 Clerk of the Legislative Assembly.
